GREAT VICTORY IN BALKANS; NEW GAINS ON HINDENBURG LINE

VACCINE FOR GRIP, BUT IT'S SCARCE

Preventive Treatment Is Known Says Dr. Leary, but the Serum Is Unavailable

A preventive for "Spanish" influenza has been found, according to Dr. Timothy Leary of the Tufts Medical School, medical examiner for the southern district of Suffolk County.

"It is a vaccine, made from influenza bacilli," said Dr. Leary today. "We have used it before on a smaller scale and found it successful. There is absolutely no question that it acts as a prophylactic.

"It is not a new discovery. But the application of it in this case is new, as the epidemic itself is new. It is simply applying vaccination to the epidemic, and from the results we have obtained I am sure that it will be as successful as vaccination has proved against typhoid and other diseases."

At the present time, however, this serum is unavailable to the general public. Nor is there a supply of it on hand for the use of physicians even of Greater Boston.

NOT FOR GENERAL PUBLIC.

"We are using it on our students," said Dr. Leary, when asked where anyone who might wish to get vaccinated against the disease should apply, "and this requires all our facilities. The question of making it available for general use opens up

HOW "ACE" PUTNAM DIED

Shot Through Heart in Battle With Group of Enemy Planes

By HENRY G. WALES.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army on the Lorraine Front, Sept. 19.—First Lieutenant David E. Putnam of Brookline, Mass., the ace of American aces, brought down an enemy Fokker in flames a few seconds before he was killed during an air combat against great odds on the afternoon of September 12. This feat brought his total official victories to ten and his unofficial triumphs to eighteen.

As acting squadron commander, the young American ace was not supposed to make flights, but whenever the opportunity offered he always went up with the other pilots.

On the afternoon of the 12th Putnam jumped at the chance to go up with Lieutenant Wendell A. Robertson of Fort Smith, Ark., on patrol duty along the American lines.

ATTACKED BY SUPERIOR FORCE.

The two were gliding along in their machines at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the vicinity of Limey when they were suddenly attacked by eight Fokkers that swooped down unexpectedly from above.

The enemy planes split into two groups. One group attacked Putnam and the other attacked Robertson.

The thrilling battle was watched eagerly by infantrymen on the ground. They saw Putnam maneuver skilfully, and despite the terrific odds begin to battle with the assailing Germans. He sent one of them crashing to the earth in flames. Then the infantrymen saw Putnam's machine start gliding to the earth. It was apparent that no one was steering it. Robertson disengaged himself from the group of Germans and flew safely to the American lines.

MADE WILL NIGHT BEFORE.

Putnam's machine swept over the American lines and crashed to the road east of Limay. The young hero's body was extricated from the wreckage and it was found that he died from two bullet wounds through the heart.

The Medaille Militaire, conferred upon Putnam several weeks ago, arrived at the squadron field a few minutes after his last flight.

Officers in Putnam's squadron state that he drew up his will on the night before the fatal flight.

By International News Service.

London, Sept. 19.—The allied armies on the Macedonian front have penetrated to a depth of twelve and one-half miles and are relentlessly pursuing the completely beaten forces of the enemy, night and day, according to the latest Serbian War Office statement, just received here.

From a semi-official source it is learned that the allied Balkan offensive is rapidly becoming general, extending to the north of Monastir, thus menacing the important Bulgarian rail centre of Prilep.

The number of prisoners taken by the Serbs, French and Greeks has reached the 7,000 mark.

Dispatches state the Bulgars are not fighting with anything near their old-time vigor. Most of their reinforcements were isolated in the Prilep region when they were most urgently needed.

The Serbians are now pushing downhill and the operations are described as "going well."

The new Greek army has not yet been engaged in the offensive.

An official statement issued at Paris today says:

"In Macedonia along a front of 25 kilometers the Serbian, French and Greek forces have advanced to a depth of fifteen kilometers at some places. They have captured the fortified villages of Zovik, on the Staravina heights, and Polichte and Seechichte.

"The Gradesnitza was crossed at Porej and allied troops have occupied the Topolec plateau. Fifty cannon and a large number of prisoners were taken.

"The text of today's Serbian official report follows:

"We are pursuing the completely beaten enemy day and night.

"We have taken the Crnik plateau and the towns of Kumbarkanon, Polichko, Vinjbite, Metrovitza and Rasimbey and have advanced to a depth of twenty kilometers.

"New Bulgarian reinforcements have been beaten and forced to retire, burning stores and villages.

"Our prisoners and booty have not yet been counted."

By FRANK CHARLTON.
International News Service Cable Editor.

The British army in Picardy has begun to cut into the old Hindenburg line while the extent of the allied victory in the Balkans is growing.

On the front between the Meuse and Moselle rivers the Americans continue their brilliant advance and the big American guns are now furiously pounding the defences of Metz.

American patrols are operating in the Pagny sur Moselle sector and are clearing out German machine gun posts that were left behind in the big retreat to the new Hindenburg line in that district.

The magnificent British victory in Picardy and the brilliant success of the allied forces in the Balkans vie with each other in importance.

On the Macedonian front the French and Serbians have advanced over twelve miles and the Bulgarians thrown back in a panicky retreat.

The Germans have been making desperate efforts to save the old Hindenburg line in front of St. Quentin. Reinforcements were rushed up and delivered strong counter-attacks, but all of the British gains were maintained.

The Australians distinguished themselves in the mighty British attack taking by storm some of the defensive outposts of the Hindenburg line.

At some points the British advanced three miles and are back in the positions they were holding prior to last March when the German offensive was launched.

The allied advance on the eastern battlefront is general, and progress has been made at the most vital points during the past twenty-four hours.

Many prisoners fell into the hands of the British. In addition to the great gains on the Picardy front, the British again advanced in Flanders.

Strong German counter-attacks were launched northwest of St. Quentin in an effort to hold up the British surging movement. Hot close engagements and the Arras-Cambrai road all the telephone lines of communication of the British army were cut.

The text of the War Office statement follows:

"There was a violent bombardment by the enemy between Gouzeaucourt and the Arras-Cambrai road. At 4 o'clock the Germans attacked in a wide front at Trescault and to the northward of that place.

"The assault was completely repulsed. Heavy losses were inflicted upon the Germans.

"Another attack by the Germans north of Moeuvres was repulsed also. Many prisoners were captured.

"Great numbers of German dead were seen before the British lines.

By HENRY G. WALES.

With the American Army in France, Aug. 31 (By Mail).—"Got it" is the only way doughboys ever refer to being killed in battle. One never mentions the words "dead" or "killed." And to express the fact of being wounded they usually say "hit," qualifying it as "bad" or "not much."

Austria Planning to Disavow Treaty of Brest-Litovsk

By International News Service.

Amsterdam, Sept. 19.—Austria is preparing to repudiate the Brest-Litovsk treaty, according to reports from that country which are being received here.

The reports indicate that in the near future a statement may be expected from the Austrian government or a resolution from the Reichsrath that Austria does not propose to stand firmly by the much-censured treaty.

London, Sept. 19.—"The cool, cutting scorn in President Wilson's reply portion of the Austro-Hungarian peace conference offer has an effect more shattering than all the semi-official phrases the man in the White House could have used," says the Berliner Lokalanzeiger, Berlin Westfalische Zeitung in commenting on President Wilson's statement regarding the Vienna peace bid, according to the Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Express.

GERMANS MAKE PLANS FOR RETREAT

Mine the Haumont Area Fronting Americans, Preparatory to Withdrawal

With the American Army in Lorraine, Sept. 19.—Our patrols report that the Germans are mining the northern edge of Haumont village preliminary to a withdrawal.

Our artillery blew up several German ammunition dumps, and one of our big-calibre guns scored direct hits on German rolling stock at La Chaussee.

Our prompt barrage broke up a German counter attack launched from the Villers la rellaine.

The Germans are busily engaged reforming the foreffield of the Hindenburg line which our forces are facing.

German prisoners state that General von Gallwitz, who commanded the German front in Lorraine, ordered the withdrawal of all of the St. Mihiel salient on September 5, but that the Germans lacked horses to pull out the artillery and remove the supplies.

The American attack was launched, they admit, before the evacuation operation was well under way.

Lndendorff has hit upon a new scheme of propaganda with which he thinks he can cause disruption in our lines. German aviators are bombing Vandieres and the region around that village, as well as the Villers Ancb road, dropping thousands of messages in English calling upon the Americans of German ancestry to desert and promising they can find liberty in Germany.

A pet charge in these messages is that President Wilson is "really English," and that his policies "make Washington turn over in his grave."

One of the American corps that participated in the St. Mihiel drive captured 1,000 officers, 4,000 prisoners, 131 guns, 380 gas projectors, several batteries of anti-aircraft guns, innumerable trench mortars and machine guns, railroad rolling stock, motor and horse ambulances, many vehicles, three wireless stations, an entire field hospital, hundreds of thousands of rounds of ammunition and hand grenades, telegraph and telephone equipment, food supplies and horses.

Captured Order Proves Pershing Upset German Plan to Hold St. Mihiel

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Gerhard's assertion that the evacuation of the St. Mihiel salient, recently wiped out by General Pershing's army, had been under consideration for years and that the German withdrawal, according to orders, is flatly disproved in a captured order, a translation of which forms section B, of General Pershing's communique for September 12, made public by the War Department this afternoon.

This order, dated Sept. 8, and found upon prisoners from the Tenth German Division, shows that the American attack was anticipated, but that the Germans expected to repulse the assault.

"The principal line of resistance," reads one section of the order, "must be held at all cost and must remain in our possession at the end of the combat. There must be no failing back without order and no one must leave the position."

The order, some 1,500 words, reveals the elaborate plans by which the Germans hoped to beat off the attack and completely gives the lie to the German communique of September 13, which stated that the evacuation of the salient "had been planned for years and was begun some days ago," and that therefore we did not fight the battle to a decision and carried out the movements which we had planned, the enemy being unable to check them.

The defence of the salient was planned to the most minute detail, the order setting forth the positions that each unit was to take up when the alarm of attack was sounded. An elaborate alarm system was also worked out.

"At night," runs one section of the order, "no one must sleep. Change the positions of sentinels frequently in order that our formation may remain unknown to the enemy and that no surprise may be possible. The enemy's patrols must be pushed back and captured. Look out for the approach of the enemy and be sure which position you are to occupy."

One order is headed: "Secret orders for the defence," which in itself repudiates the German communique, and it is signed by Baron von Gruter.

Officers Graduate Oct. 14

MAP SHOWS WHERE BRITISH MADE FRESH GAINS

The British launched their new drive on a 16-mile front northwest of St. Quentin from Holnon to beyond Gouzeaucourt, penetrating the German line at some points as much as three miles. They swept over the old British defences of last March and captured the outer defences of the Hindenburg line, which was defended by the Germans' crack divisions.

SAYS GENERAL DRIVE IS NEEDED TO TAKE METZ

French, British and Americans Must Join in Big Offensive, Declares Re'Quin

Washington, Sept. 19.—Metz, the city upon which all American eyes are turned, must not be considered as a single unit, whose fall will come as the result of a single offensive, but must be considered simply as a part of the western front which will come into the hands of the allies as a result of the general plan of offensive on the part of the French, British and American troops.

This is the view taken by a distinguished French soldier in the following article;

By LIEUTENANT-COLONEL E. B. RE'QUIN
of the French High Command.

Metz is a modern stronghold which has received all of the latest improvements, but it is not an isolated stronghold. With Thionville it constitutes what the German general staff calls the "Moselle Stellung," or Moselle position.

This whole fortified region is constituted essentially not by isolated forts but by small fortified zones which the Germans call Feste, and of which the intermediary positions are thoroughly organized.

In the eyes of the German staff the role of this Metz-Thionville position was to be essentially an offensive. This position was to permit an army to debouch from it upward the west—very likely at a time when the violation of Belgium had not been decided upon.

ESSENTIALLY AN OFFENSIVE.

An extremely dense network of railways permits the concentration of important forces behind the Metz-Thionville front.

On the other hand, it is not likely that an Allied offensive could develop in the direction of the north between the Meuse and Moselle without attacking or without taking into consideration the whole of the position of Metz-Thionville.

In other words, the attack or the defence of the Moselle position, cannot be conceived outside of the general scheme of large army operations. All that can be said at the present time after the brilliant successes obtained by the American troops in the Woevre is that the following results have been obtained:

SALIENT SUPPRESSED.

1—Suppression of a salient, very objectionable to us, by inflicting bloody losses on the enemy.

2—The placing of a number of points, very important to the enemy, under the long distance fire of the Allies.

3—The preparation of a base for an ulterior offensive in case this offensive might enter into the project of the high command.

It is very important therefore, to combat this wrong notion that Metz is an isolated stronghold whose attack could be conceived independently from the general scheme of offensive, which alone the chief command of the allied forces can determine.

ONION CROP LARGEST EVER IN BAY STATE

Lovers of onions will rejoice in the news from the Connecticut Valley that the crop now being harvested is the finest and probably the largest ever gathered in Massachusetts. From a smaller acreage than last year this year's crop will undoubtedly exceed the expectations of growers to the extent of several thousand bushels. An estimated total of 2,250,000 bushels of first quality onions is being gathered. Local dealers have storage facilities for 606,500 bushels.

bombarded the French rear during the Verdun fighting.

Civilians at Vignculles declare German carpenters, reinforced by Swiss toymakers at high wages, made the artificial guns from logs turned out at a nearby lumber mill. The timber came from the Montagne forest.

Dummy anti-aircraft and machine guns also were placed adjacently and calcium flares were lighted at night to mislead the Americans into thinking the German shell fire was coming from the dummies.

Austria's peace offer has been forgotten already by the boys at the front. Neither men nor officers ever mention it, nor have they since the first day the news was received here.

REICHSTAG PRESIDENT HOPES FOR ARMISTICE

Copenhagen, via London, Sept. 19.—Dr. Fehrenbach, new president of the Reichstag, is quoted by the Stuttgart newspapers as expressing the hope that there will be an armistice soon. New York, Sept. 19.—Eight masked and armed men interrupted a crap game in a basement and got away with $8,000. The loot included one chunk of greenbacks containing $1,500 that its owner had tossed under a table. The bandits left nothing except the dice.

17 AUSTRIAN DIVISIONS ON WEST FRONT

Building a Third Defence Line in Alsace-Lorraine, Captured Officers Say

With the American Army on the Lorraine Front, Sept. 19.—Captured officers assert that seventeen Austro-Hungarian divisions are mobilized along the French front. Most of them are not yet ready to be used, the prisoners state, but are being but through a rigorous training in Alsace-Lorraine, where they are building a third line of defence works behind the Hindenburg line.

Captured officers express little confidence in the ability of the Germans to defend the Hindenburg line. They intimate that fresh, dashing troops, like the Americans, with plenty of tanks, are able to smash any defence position ever constructed.

The Germans used hundreds of dummy guns in St. Mihiel, emplaced along the Meuse heights, from the southwest of which real enemy guns

BRITISH OCCUPY OBSERVATION POSITIONS

Rawlinson's Forces Take Outposts of Hindenburg Line in Single Day's Fighting

By BERT FORD,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the British Army in France, Sept. 19.—General Rawlinson's fourth British army today occupied all of the important observation points dominating the Hindenburg line.

Many outposts of the German defensive system were won in a single day's fighting. Yesterday's operations were more successful than had been anticipated. All of the objectives were reached before scheduled time.

The British are still a trifle to the west of the ground previously held by them, but have now penetrated the Hindenburg line and are advancing within several miles of Cambrai.

The third British army corps aided in the victory.

The total number of prisoners is mounting toward 7,000.

There are twice as many captives in the hands of the British as there were British wounded in the first day of fighting.

The Australians drove through the enemy's centre for a distance of three miles, capturing Leverguier, Villeret and Hargicourt.

MORE THAN 2,500 CAPTIVES.

The German defensive works on the outskirts of Bellicourt were badly hammered. More than 2,500 prisoners were taken in the fighting in that district. The British are now within striking distance of the main defences of the old Hindenburg line. The Seventy-Fourth Yeomanry Division, eastern county and London troops, faced the stiffest fighting and were in the storm centre of the battle. They defeated the Alpine Corps and the Second German Guard Division in the attack which resulted in the capture of Epehy, Templeux, Le Guerard Ronssoy and Peizeres.

The Fifty-First Division, just north of this zone of combat, was thrilled in victory by retaking the old trenches that they had been defending last March before the German offensive began. After beating off an enemy counter-attack the Twenty-first advanced a mile.

FIGHT FOR EVERY FOOT.

During Wednesday even Scottish troops that were fighting on the extreme right flank faced a fight for every foot of ground they gained. The villages of Berthaucourt and Pontru (just west of the Cambrai-St. Quentin road) were captured.

As darkness fell two fresh German divisions which had been rushed up struck a blow at the British line where it joins up with the French, northwest of St. Quentin.

The capture of Gauche wood, on the plateau east of the town of Gouzeaucourt, was a brilliant operation. It was carried out by Welsh and English troops.

The British drive was carried out over a front of sixteen miles (which is wider than the estimate of Wednesday) and they encountered better discipline and more desperate resistance than in the previous thrusts in the same neighborhood. Some of the prisoners were overjoyed at being captured, while others were sullen.

GERMANS GUARDING DUTCH LINE FLEE INTO HOLLAND

New York, Sept. 19.—Germans are no longer guarding the Dutch frontier with infantry, but marines from battleships have replaced soldiers, according to Gerald Van Casteel, a lawyer, who has just returned to this country from Holland. This is expected, he said, because of desertions from the infantry into Holland. Hundreds of soldiers, according to Mr. Van Casteel, have gone to Holland and asked to be interned, declaring they had had enough of war.

AMERICAN PRISONERS PLACED UNDER FIRE ALONG FRONT LINE

CAPTIVES DO WORK OF HORSES

Forced to Haul Wagons and Carry Ammunition to Trenches

By HENRY G. WALES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army on the Lorraine Front, Sept. 19.—American soldiers who were captured by the Germans at Seicheprey last May, were sent at Thiaucourt and forced to work between the village and the front line trenches for more than two weeks, it is learned from civilians at Thiaucourt.

Later, when American airmen began to bombard Thiaucourt during July, the Americans were brought back there by the Germans.

Several hundred French people, who remained at Thiaucourt, during the German occupation, stated that the town was used as a corps headquarters. It was being built up until last Spring when the Germans made their big raid on Seicheprey. As the American prisoners were brought in after the raid, the Germans lined them up and subjected them to jeers and insults. Three Americans were reported to have been killed by American artillery fire to which they were exposed by their captors.

The examination of these prisoners lasted five days.

During that period, Germans speaking English and wearing American uniforms were placed in the guardhouse with the Americans. They pretended to be prisoners also and vainly attempted to win the confidence of the Americans. Then the Americans declared they knew nothing. They were confronted by stool pigeons who tried to worm secrets

When American planes began their day and night bombing raids on Conflans and Thiaucourt, American prisoners were brought back and quartered in the railway yards, which the Germans knew were always the target of the bombers.

The Germans made their captives perform all kinds of menial duties such as hauling wagons without horses, cleaning latrines and carrying ammunition to the front line trenches, in direct violation of international treaties.

Dozens of Thiaucourt civilians were punished for giving food surreptitiously to the American prisoners and an aged Frenchman was sent to prison for talking to the Americans through a barbed wire window.

The uniforms of the Americans were ragged and their shoes were torn. When they asked for garments the German officials told them to bring in the corpses of German soldiers lying between the first and second lines and they could have the boots of the dead men. One American was made a bolt for the American lines was shot.

WAR LABOR BOARD MAY ADOPT 8-HOUR DAY BASIS

Washington, Sept. 19.—Adoption of an eight-hour work day as a basis for future labor adjustments was hinted by Frank P. Walsh, joint chairman of the National War Labor Board, in announcement of a decision handed down in connection with the Wheeling Moulders & Foundry Company of Wheeling, W. Va. The decision was rendered by chief Justice Walter Clark of North Carolina, appointed by the board to settle the dispute between the company and the Moulders' Union. It rules that moulders shall be required to work more than eight hours a day only when an emergency exists, such emergency to be decided by a permanent committee of four. This ruling becomes automatically that of the War Labor Board.

The sum Dana seeks to recover represents money which he claims was received for him while he and his father were joint tenants of property in South Boston. Dana says he was a minor and that his father made no accounting to him of sume spent. He presents a claim also against the Dana Hardware Company of $21,788.14.

He confers with Director-General McAdoo on New England and Boston railroad matters, and with Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board on the desirability of Boston getting one of the big floating drydocks which the board is to build. The Mayor also seeks some of the war shipping for Boston that is now congesting New York harbor. He will return tomorrow or Saturday.

SCISSORS FLY IN RED CROSS WORKSHOP

By HAZEL CANNING.

"For it's the present tragedy—to be too old to help. And it's the joy of today—to be working all day long."

It was the busiest of Red Cross workrooms at No. 1000 Washington street. Scissors flew, bandages were speedily cut and packed, soldiers' kits were filled and tied; hundreds of women and girls, seated to their tasks, eager eyes strained to their work, sat intently busy.

For here was the workroom where Miss Beacon Street and Madame Back Bay, under orders, sharn, official, with hours long and tasks set by schedule, day by day and month by month, come at 9 in the morning, to work till five each night, and Mrs. Edward J. Holmes, wife of the grandson of the poet Holmes, explained that of which she is so importantly apart.

One of the rooms is called the "Reclamation Department," and it was added by request of the government. All about are worn and frayed uniforms of soldiers who have seen service. All about is khaki bleached in the sterilizing, uniform trousers ripped at the sides where surgeons cut to get at a wounded knee. All about are shirts, with holes in the elbows and coats stripped of buttons. And, over the Reclamation Room, serving as of the lowliest, are Boston's chosen maids and matrons. Mrs. Sturgis Lothrop is in charge. Mrs. Albert Thorndike, Mrs. Phillip Stockton, Mrs. Charles Cheever and Miss Camfill all help, while outside, to inspect the garments mended, reclaimed, after these ladies have passed upon them, is a government official.

The Red Cross is saving Uncle Sam hundreds of dollars here alone, explained an official. Then when it comes to discipline of young Red Cross women, the visitor hears "We have our rules."

WORK QUICKLY AND QUIETLY.

"Work as quickly as we can; work as well as we can; work as quietly as we can," were the orders printed upon a card pinned to the wall. Which was to ask the question—"And—ahem —are—you able to keep the little lady who arrives in her limousine, and pays her income tax—are you—able to keep her down to discipline?" To keep her to discipline is part of the monitor's work.

No girl, once she has begun, must leave her place or walk about the room. The monitor brings her her work, criticises it, for she must do everything after a standard set by Washington, and, when it is done, the monitor takes it away.

And they did obey the rules, as eyes very well could see. But even where there were rules, there was also kindly feeling, eagerness, and even romance. The romance of motherhood, even in those Washington street warerooms, there in the department of the refugee garments. This department is under the charge of Mrs. James Newell, and Braxwell Baker, Mrs. Henry W. Esterbrook, Miss E. I. Reed, Mrs. Sturgis Lothrop, Mrs. J. D. Colt and Mrs. Ed. A. Clark and Mrs. Ed. J. Holmes.

For, in this storeroom where soldiers' comforts are almost the entire story, there were baby layettes for French children as yet, perhaps, unborn, of flannel pink and softest blue. We make them as French mothers like them, not as we make them for our own American babies. There were little hoods of pink, side by side small shirts—the first shirt some little French Gaston will ever wear. Sent him with the good wishes of Madame Boston far across the sea, who, subjecting herself to orders, and hours, even as you and I, sewed lovingly that little Gaston and his mother should not worry about wherewithal he should be clothed.

400 VOLUNTEER WORKERS.

Which leads to financial facts. Here at No. 1000 Washington street, where New England in one room. Here, in addition to a paid force of 150 workers, is an unpaid, hardest-working force of 400 volunteer workers, men and women. Here Messrs. Angier, Mabbett and Grandin have given up their business to lend their aid. And here blue-veiled monitors, society women in charge of rooms, comprise such names as these: Mrs. Phillip Dexter, J. Murray Howe, Lester Leland, J. M. Raymond, Lilly Beal, Miss Maria Decrow, Mrs. Tom B. Gannett, H. L. Hall, M. J. Sheridan, C. J. Smith, De Forest Danielson, Miss Eleanor Jones, Mrs. Harcourt Amory, Mrs. C. Clapp, J. H. Hutchins, Miss A. M. Paul, Mrs. Henry S. Grew, F. W. Champorne, Miss Field, Mrs. Albert Thorndike, Mrs. Sleeper and Miss Keith.

Mrs. Ed. A. Waters is head of the Registry Department, for while the Red Cross needs workers here, more, and more and more, drawing a social line, they are strict about references.

So, at No. 1000 Washington street, all day long through the working days, little Miss Boston of the storied name, little Miss Boston who has never earned a penny in her life, comes and works, and takes orders, and smiles, and keeps quiet, all in the name of patriotism and her country. And at night, weary, she goes home, having earned the salary she does not receive. For these are war days and little Miss Boston feels the stir of the times as the keenest patriot of them all.

'GIVE ME DEATH IN CHAIR,' SAYS CHAPIN

Editor Arraigned for Slaying of Wife Against Appointment of Sanity Commission

By International News Service.

New York, Sept. 19.—"I want to go to the electric chair."

Charles E. Chapin, former city editor of the Evening World, is quoted as saying this by Assistant District Attorney McGee during a conference at the arraignment of the editor today on a charge of murdering his wife.

"I am perfectly sane," the editor is said to have added. "I do not want any sanity commission appointed. I want to pay the price."

Chapin's counsel entered a formal plea of not guilty for his client. The court announced that he would allow ten days in which to change the plea, and ordered the case sent to the Tombs.

It was announced by the district attorney's office that any effort on the part of Chapin or his friends to have a lunacy commission appointed for him would be opposed by the district attorney.

CLAIM MANY LEADERS SUPPORT FITZGERALD

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and those supporting his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the 10th Congressional district, claimed today that Democratic leaders in the different parts of the district were in line for him. They asserted that they were making a splendid showing in the South end section and that, while City Clerk James Donovan, the South end leader, was not taking active part in the Fitzgerald campaign, his close political friends were. Point was made, too, of the claim that Councillor John J. Attridge, Senator Edward McLaughlin, Representative John W. Craig and other Ward 6 men were stumping for the former Mayor. There will be a Fitzgerald rally at Lyceum Hall, Maverick square, East Boston.

LONG RALLY ORATORS TAKE FLING AT GASTON

Judge Michael F. Kennedy of Natick, speaking at a rally in Pall River, declared that the nomination of William A. Gaston "would drive thousands of progressive Democrats out of the party, cause thousands of others to remain away from the polls as a protest against his 'reactionary career' and would give the progressive principles of democracy a setback that would take years to overcome."

Richard H. Long, Dr. John W. Coughlin, Democratic National Committeeman from Massachusetts, and former Senator Thomas F. Cassidy were the other speakers at the rally held at Anawan Hall in the interest of Long's campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

DOUBLE FUNERAL HELD FOR MOTHER AND SON

The double funeral of Mrs. Catherine E. Murray and her son, J. Frank Murray, who died of pneumonia, superinduced by influenza, was held today from their home, No. 21 Winslow street, Roxbury. There was a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Patrick's Church, celebrated by Rev. David J. Regan. Burial was at St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

DRAFT IMPAIRS MAN POWER OF COURTS

Face Problem of Readjusting Jury Lists and Rolls of Officials

The business of the Superior Court for Suffolk County was interrupted for several weeks last Winter by the coal shortage; now, more serious problems confront that court, about to enter upon the work of another year, when begins on the first Monday in October and ends on the last of June, 1919.

Some time ago the Justices of the Superior Court arranged for seven jury sessions in Boston, and one session in which the lists of cases should be called and prepared for trial. The Justice assigned to that session also is to hear all cases in which trial by jury have been waived.

Now, when the calling to service of all men between the ages of 18 and 45 years seriously interferes with the plan to expedite the disposition of suits. Every thirty days several hundreds of jurors are required for the various sessions, and many of these will have to be excused because of immediate liability of being notified by the government to respond to military duty. This will leave only men between the ages of 45 and 50 to serve in the courts, and to limit jurors to that place it will be necessary to readjust the jury list so as to meet the present emergency.

In many instances it probably will be found that litigants and witnesses have been drafted, and in such cases the court will order the action continued until the termination of the war. Another obstacle to the progress of the courts will be the absence of attorneys, many of whom will have to give all their time for the next two months as members of advisory boards—a duty already recognized by the courts as paramount to all other engagements.

Chief Justice Rugg of the Supreme Court has issued a notice excusing all attorneys on legal advisory boards from attendance at the full court at before a single justice until further action oday Chief Justice Aiken of the Superior promulgated a similar order in cases pending before that court.

CHARGES POLITICS IN NEW BANK PETITION

Charges that Senator Edwin T. Mc Knight has been handing out trust company charters "like presents from a Christmas tree" to friends of his candidacy for president of the Senate were made by Edward A. Thurston of Fall River at a hearing on a petition for incorporation of the Fall River Trust Company. Mr. Thurston further charged that the proposed trust company would be run from Boston and would be "but another in the Eaton-McKnight chain that is being spread all over the Commonwealth."

"This bank," said Thurston, "is nothing more or less than a political machine, absolutely without local support." The board of incorporation took the petition under advisement.

COTTONSEED REPORT SHOWS 146,000 TONS

Washington, Sept. 19.—The census report for the period from Aug. 1 to Aug. 31 shows 146,024 tons of cottonseed, less re-shipments, received at mills and 45,729 crushed; also 126,642 held at mills Aug. 31. Production, crude oil, 12,381,734 pounds; refined oil, 3,447,072 pounds; cake and meal, 23,-52 tons; hulls, 11,145 tons; linters, 13,231 bales; hull fibre 24,477 bales; stocks Aug. 31, crude oil, 10,429,102 pounds, refined 195,665,323 pounds.

TWO DIVORCE ACTIONS ARE FILED AT DEDHAM

Arthur H. Fay filed a petition for a divorce from his wife in the Norfolk County Court in Dedham today, alleging unfaithfulness. They were married August 2, 1911. Ruth Howard M. Hurd of Wrentham, on the grounds of cruelty, non-support and unfaithfulness. They were married June 1913.

Second Man Held for Theft

Edward Courtney, dealer in secondhand furniture, was held in $1,000 in the Superior Court by Judge Sturtevant in the Somerville Police Court today. He was charged with stealing $185. from Miss Eliza Picart of No. 28 Harrison street, Somerville, and pleaded not guilty.

CURE FOR GRIP, BUT THE PUBLIC CAN'T GET IT

as tremendous a problem that I can at present offer any solution.

The chief features in the influenza situation today are:

Thirty deaths from influenza, and thirteen from pneumonia in Boston yesterday.

Five deaths from influenza, and three from pneumonia in twelve hours beginning at 10 o'clock last night.

Eight non-residents among the deaths in Boston yesterday.

Superintendent Frank Y. Thompson of the Boston schools declares he will close the schools should the epidemic continue to spread. The Mozart elementary school in Somerville, with 214 pupils ill, is closed. Five schools of Marlborough have been closed.

The Red Cross has mustered its full strength of nurses to combat the disease today.

Three deaths were recorded at Camp William A. Brooks, Coney Hill where men of the merchant marine are patients, making a total of fourteen deaths to date. There are 182 patients in the camp, several of them on the danger list. Many have been discharged as cured.

Dr. Louis W. Spoke, surgeon of the shipping board training base at East Boston, believes the worst of the epidemic is passed.

Major Arthur E. Austin, medical officer of the Department of the North, reported three deaths from the disease today.

A particularly sad case was that of Miss Margaret Sullivan, a United States army nurse at Camp Devens, who contracted the disease while nursing sick soldiers and succumbed.

11 DEATHS IN BROCKTON.

Cities and towns outside of Greater Boston have been reached by the epidemic. Brockton reported 11 deaths and over 1,000 school children sent home. Fitchburg has 59 cases. At the Naval Training Station at Newport 75 new cases have been reported.

Health Commissioner William C. Woodward calls attention to the fact that persons between the ages of 12 and 45 seem most susceptible to the disease.

Lieutenant-Colonel Phillip S. Deane, chief of Medical U. S. Shipping Board, advances the theory that German submarines brought here and spread germs of the disease. He dispatched Dr. W. F. Coon from Washington to come to Boston to take charge of combatting the disease for the Shipping Board.

Representative of drug concerns states there is plenty of disinfectants, the preventive and curative drug.

The number of deaths from influenza and pneumonia from last Saturday up to 10 o'clock today was as follows:

| THE BOSTON DEATH RECORD. | Influenza. | Pneumonia |
|---|---|---|
| Sept. 14 | 9 | 12 |
| Sept. 15 | 13 | 9 |
| Sept. 16 | 23 | 5 |
| Sept. 17 | 28 | 13 |
| Sept. 18 | 24 | 13 |
| Sept. 19 (10 a.m.) | 5 | 3 |

Although the last twelve hours would seem to show a decrease in the death rate, but that such is the case Dr. Woodward declined to state, as owing to many circumstances delays might have occurred in reporting deaths, and the real state of affairs cannot be ascertained until figures for the next twenty-four hours are turned in.

"It is possible the epidemic was started by men and women of German submarine commanders," said Lieutenant-Colonel Boone, in answer to questions as measures are being taken to combat the disease in shipyards. "We know that men have been ashore from German submarines, for they have been seen in New York and other places. It would be easy for one of these Germans to turn loose Spanish influenza germs in theaters and other public places. The Germans have started epidemics in Europe."

Among the latest victims of the disease today was George E. Closs of Cambridge, one of the most prominent candy manufacturers of New England. He was head of the George E. Closs Confectionery Co., and died at his farm at Barre, Vt. He was an ex-president of the New England Confectioners' Club. He leaves a widow and two young daughters. He will be buried Sunday, with services at Mount Auburn Chapel.

Harold L. Pedrick, grandson of Sergeant-at-Arms Thomas F. Pedrick of the State House, was another victim. He was twenty-five years old, and for four years had been clerk under his grandfather. He leaves a widow and a baby son in Lynn.

Associate Medical Examiner T. Morton Gallagher of Newton has been in charge of the autopsies on all influenza victims. He has also been treating patients.

Dr. E. Gaby of No. 248 Medford street Arlington, and Harold S. Decker of No. 31 Gregory street, Newton, are among the victims of the disease reported today.

Clarence O. Wilman, thirty-nine, of 99 South street, Waltham, and Jacob Cohen, thirty-three, of Curtis street, Waltham, died today at the Waltham Hospital of influenza.

William, who was a jewel worker, had been ill three days. He leaves a widow and six children, all suffering with the disease. Cohen's widow and four children are also stricken.

Much Better Situation Reported in 1st Naval District; 113 New Cases

There is a big drop in the number of cases of grip in the Fifth Naval District, it was reported today by Captain John M. Ridgely, medical director. There are 113 new cases, with 13 deaths, while the forty-four deaths are reported. Eight deaths is the record for the past twenty-four hours. "It is the best we've had for a week," remarked Captain Edgar. "There has been a steady decline. The Radio School, Cambridge, has 12 against 50 of yesterday. At the Aviation Department, Cambridge, we have 28 new cases, as compared with 36 yesterday. We have the lowest number since turkey since the army broke out.

"At the Hingham training school 24 new cases are reported against 36 of yesterday. This is not only large increase, and this can be explained easily as we have been having few cases from this school. We expect to have a low rate tomorrow.

"If we had a killing front for a short time I believe the germ would be checked and stamped out. Anyway, we're getting over the top with the disease and are realy much pleased today with the situation."

Private Henry McNulty, twenty-two years old, of No. 3 Elmwood place Roxbury, died today at the City Hospital. He was a student at Wentworth Institute and was well-known at Fields corner, Dorchester, where he has worked for the Electric Light Co. He is the only son of Mrs. J. Paul Canty of Dorchester.

James T. Carter, forty-three, a well-known horseman, died today at his home at Savin Hill. He was a four-minute man and a member of Commonwealth Lodge, I. O. O. F.

"Dichloramine-T" Is Short Word for—Germ Killer

What is dichloramine T, used to kill influenza germs? Thousands are asking the question.

It is dichloramine with T, the druggists reply. And T is short—in fact it's short just twenty-seven letters of the alphabet for Toluene Parasulfondichloramine.

That's what kills the germs.

There is no scarcity of dichloramine-T, it is announced. But there is a scarcity of atomizers.

Druggists and doctors agree that while the present epidemic of influenza continues it would be well for every person to spray the throat twice a day with dichloramine as a preventive.

Here are some of the places where dichloramine-T may be bought.

Woodward Drug Company, No. 160 Tremont street.

Melvin & Badger, No. 43 Temple place.

Klein's Pharmacy, No. 628 Washington street.

Theodore Metcalf Company, No. 635 Huntington street.

Otis Clapp & Son, No. 439 Boylston street.

Louis K. Liggett Stores.

1,000 Cases Reported in Salem; Physicians Give Up Office Hours

Efforts of the Salem Board of Health to ascertain the extent of influenza today resulted in a statement in which it is estimated that there are fully 1,000 cases. The number to call at physicians is 175, and probably 100 more unfiled.

Doctors are giving up their customary office hours to attend to their numerous calls. Most of the cases reported were of children under five years, and young adults. Five burial permits for deaths from pneumonia were issued by the Board of Health during the first half-hour today.

FITCHBURG TROLLEYS PROPOSE 7-CENT FARES

The Fitchburg & Leominster Street Railway today notified the Public Service Commission of its intention to raise fares October 15 from five to seven cents. The petition was obtained this unusual statement: "As many companies which have raised fares have failed to do so, we feel immediately lost patronage to such an extent that their gross receipts have decreased. For this reason it is necessary to have a seven-cent fare to obtain any financial benefit."

150 IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS HAVE INFLUENZA

One hundred and fifty cases of influenza have been reported up to date in the Boston public schools. In the opinion of Dr. William H. Devine, director of medical inspection, the epidemic does not warrant the closing of the schools, as the teachers and principals are keeping a sharp lookout for any sign of illness among the children, and a pupil showing any signs or symptoms of the disease is immediately sent home and given medical treatment.

Dr. Devine disagrees with the advice coming from many sources as to the spraying of the nose. This method may result harmful, as people may use different preparations, and treatment of the nose with a spray should be done by a doctor. The simplest remedy for a person who may have contracted the disease is to gargle with a hot garnle of some local preparation, such as saleratus or bicarbonate of soda. These preparations are in almost every home.

BOLSHEVIK LEADERS PLOTTED ASSASSINATION OF ROUMANIANS

Patriotic Poles Condemned to Be Shot by Troops Paid $6 a Day.

Assassination orders for the ruthless extermination of Russian patriots, the secret plotting of Trotsky for the disruption of Roumania, as inspired by Hoffman of the German General Staff, the deliberate plan to murder Diamandi, the Roumanian minister to Petrograd, and the narrow escape of Diamandi by a victory of the White Guard are features of today's fifth instalment of the official exposure of Lenin and Trotsky, the Bolshevik leaders, as paid agents of Germany.

The name of Wolf Vonigel appears as a field director for Bolshevik agitators among the German prisoner soldiers. The question is raised whether this was the notorious Count von Igel of German activity in this country.

The cold-blooded method of the German masters of Lenin and Trotsky is shown in their arrangement for several battalions to wipe out patriotic Poles and Finns. A special pay was set for these battalions —twelve rubles ($6) a day, with extra food rations.

One company was formed "of best shots for shooting of officers of regiments."

These official revelations are made public by the United States Committee on Public Information. The narrative will be continued in the AMERICAN each day this week. The fifth instalment, comprising Documents 37 to 43, inclusive, is as follows:

INSTALMENT V.

TROTZKY AND RUMANIA.

The machinations of Trotzky, inspired by the German General Hoffman, for the disruption of Roumania are disclosed in the following:

DOCUMENT NO. 37.

(Counterespionage at the Stavka.)

To the Commission on Combating the Counter-Revolution:

Commander-in-Chief Krilenko has requested the counterespionage at the staff to inform you that it is necessary to order the following persons to the Rumanian front immediately: From Petrograd, Commissar Kuhl Socialist Rakovsky, Sailor Dybenko, and from the front the chief of the Red Guard Durasov.

These persons should be supplied with literature and with financial resources for agitation. To them is committed the task of taking all measures for the deposing of the Rumanian king and the removal of counter-revolutionary Rumanian officers.—Director of Counterespionage, Feierabend; Secretary N. Drachev.

NOTE.—This mutiny of large-scale work to disorganize the Rumanian army. That is its early Winter phase it advanced disappointingly to Germany is evidenced by vengeful steps taken later by General Hoffman and Trotzky from Brest-Litovsk, when in the middle of January, Trotzky, at the request of General Hoffman, ordered the arrest of Diamandi, the Roumanian Minister Diamandi. The contents of this letter, written by Poles, were telegraphed to Washington in February and photographic copy of letter forwarded.

At about the same time the Rumanian public gold reserves in custody within the Kremlin walls at Moscow were seized by the Russian Government. Diamandi was released from arrest at the demand of the united diplomatic delegations of Petrograd, but his humiliations continued, and on January 18, he was ordered from Petrograd, being given less than ten hours to prepare for the departure of a party that contained many women and children.

Ambassador Francis sought in vain of Talkind, who was acting as Foreign Minister in the absence of Trotzky again at Brest, for an extension of the time of departure. The Rumanian party was thrown pell-mell on a train at midnight. It was delayed in Finland on one excuse and another, but immediately apparent, but in three weeks the Minister, leaving behind a large part of his people, was allowed to proceed to Torneo.

By good luck he reached there the day after the Red Guard lost Torneo to the White Guard. That day saved his life, for on the person of Svetlitzsky, a Russian commissar who joined him in Stockholm and accompanied him to Torneo, was found an order to Timaleyeff, the commissar at Torneo, to shoot him. Svetlitzsky was shot instead.

When I passed through Torneo the consular officer talked frankly about the details, expressing the opinion that the shooting might have been a mistake, as it was not shown that Svetlitzsky was aware of the contents of the letter. Svetlitzsky, however, was an important person in Petrograd, close to Trotzky.

Our American party brought Guranescu, the first secretary of the Rumanian delegation out of Finland through the lines with us. He had been in Red Finland seven weeks. Behind us at Bjoneborg we left several families of Rumanians who had departed from Petrograd with the Minister. We would have liked to have brought them through the lines of the two armies, but our venture was too desperate to permit unauthorized additions to the party.

The marginal notation on this letter is "Execute" initialed "ok," the sign manual of Trotzky, the returned exile from England, at that time Assistant Minister of Foreign Affairs, now Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Have photograph of letter.

"Letters from Zofin at Brest Litovsk carry, inc. clos. Hoffman's order through Trotzky's office regarding arrangements for Rumanian affair and to arrest Diamandi, the Rumanian minister. Photograph of the letter was sent to State Department.

CONFIDENTIAL

(No. 771. Affair of Peace Delegs., To report 4 I, Urgent (Initials.)

Brest-Litovsk,

Dec. 31, 1917. No. 246, S.K.

Comr. Shitkevitch:

Take copies and send to the Commissar for Foreign Affairs, personally to Comr. Zalkind.

To the Council of National Commissaries.

Comrade L. D. Trotzky has charged me to bring to the knowledge of the Council of National Commissaries the motives for his telegraphic proposal to expel the Rumanian diplomatic representatives in Petersburg.

Gen. Hoffman, referring to the conference which had taken place in Brest-Litovsk between the members of the German and Austro-Hungarian delegations on December 29, presented to the Russian delegation in the name of the German and Austrian chief command (a deciphered radiotelegram was exhibited in this connection) a confidential demand concerning the immediate incitement of the Rumanian army to resistance, the necessity of an armistice and adopting the terms of a democratic peace pointed out by the Russian delegates.

FEARED RUMANIAN UPSET.

The implacability of the staff and the whole commanding forces of the Rumanian army, with regard to which the chief command of the German army has received the most exact agency information, spoils the excellent impression produced in Germany and on all the fronts by the Russian peace proposition, which has made it possible to again stimulate the popular feeling against England, France and America and embring about an undesirable and dangerous aggravation of the power question up to the sending of the army going over to the attack on our front and as upon annexation of the territories occupied in Rumania.

The general expressed his opinion that against peace might be the Cossacks, some Ukrainian regiments, and the Caucasian army, in which case they will doubtless be joined by the Rumanian armies, which, according to the information in possession of the German staff, enters into the calculations of Kaledin and Alexieff.

It is greatly in the interests of the German and Austrian delegations that complete harmony should prevail on the question of an armistice as regards the conclusion of an armistice and adopting the terms of a separate peace between Russia and Germany, seeing that in this event the German and Austrian chief command will propose to Rumania their terms of peace, and will be in a position to take no further operative actions on the western front on a very large scale; at the same time General Hoffman, in the course of a conversation with Commissar Trotzky, twice hinted at the necessity of immediately beginning those war operations.

When Comr. Trotzky declared that at the disposal of the council's power there are no means of influencing the Rumanian staff, General Hoffman pointed out the necessity of sending trustworthy agents to the Rumanian army and the possibility of arresting the Rumanian mission in Petersburg and repressive measures against the Rumanian King and the Rumanian commanding forces.

PLANNED TO ARREST MISSION.

After this interview Comr. L. D. Trotzky by cable proposed to arrest the Rumanian mission in Petersburg with all its members. This report is being sent by special courier—Comrade I. G. Rozenoff, who has to personally transmit to Chmielnoisky some information of a secret character regarding the sending to the Rumanian army of those persons whose names Comr. Rozenoff will give. (Note—Underscore marked "To Sailkind.") All these persons will be paid out of the cash of the German Naphtha-Industrial Bank," which has bought near Borcslavi the business of the Polish gusher company of Pinto & Co. The chief direction of these agents has been entrusted, according to General Hoffman's indication, to a certain Wolf Vonigel (Note—von Igel), who is keeping a watch over the military agents of the countries allied with us.

As regards the English and American diplomatic representatives, General Hoffman has expressed the agreement of the German staff to the measures adopted by Comr. Trotzky and Comr. Latzimiroff with regard to watching over their activity.—Member of the delegation, A. Joffe.

Reported January 5, regarding the arrest of Diamandi and others.—M. Shitkevitch. January 5, 1918.

To the chancery: Send an urgent telegram to Trotzky about the arrest of the Rumanian minister.—Savelieff.

Note (as cabled to the Secretary of State Washington): Above cipher message, 12, western time, the eve of the Russian New Year. The Rumanian Minister was arrested that night in Petrograd, and only released on the united demand of all diplomatic and legations in Petrograd since then he has been sent out of Russia.

The letter shows that Trotzky took General Hoffman's suggestion literally as an order for action. But important of all, however, it strips the mask from the Lenin and Trotzky public protestations that they have sought to prevent the peace negotiations with Germany from turning to the military advantage of Germany against the United States, England and France. The aim here disclosed is nation's wall Germany, stimulating feeling against England, France and the United States, in enabling Germany to prepare for an offensive on the western front.

A German bank is named as paymaster for Bolshevik agitators among the Rumanian soldiers. A Wolf Vonigel, the field director, the Wolf von Igel of American notoriety. The similarity in name is striking. Finally, General Hoffman and the German staff is advised with Trotzky's watch over the American and English diplomats. Yoffe, who signs the letter, is a member of the Russian Peace Commission. Since this letter was written Sailkind has gone to Switzerland on a special mission.

JULY 6, 1918—E. S.

He did not reach there, being made to pass through England and in April was in Christiania.

ESPIONAGE AND ASSASSINATION.

Further disclosures of espionage operations and of assassination orders for the ruthless extermination of Russian patriots follow:

DOCUMENT NO. 38.

(Commissions for combating the counter-revolution and pogroms, Dec. 14, 1917, Petrograd.)

Major von Boehlke, Esteemed Comrade:

I bring to your notice that our Finnish comrades, Hakkia, Pajkky and Ernst have advised the commissar for combating the counter-revolution of the following facts:

1. Between the English officers and the Finnish bourgeoisie organizations there are connections which cause us serious apprehension.

2. In Finland have been installed two wireless stations which are used by unknown persons who communicate in cipher.

3. Between General Kaledin and the American mission there is an undoubted communication of which we have received exact information from your source, and, therefore, a most careful supervision of the American embassy is necessary.

These reports must be established exactly. Our agents have helpless. Please exause that I write on the official letter heads, but I hasten to do this during here at the commission at an extraordinary meeting. Ready to service.—F. Zalkind.

NOTE—The written comment at the top of the letter is "Commissar for foreign affairs—request action. Initialed "Ioffe. Schott." It is Von Boelke's question, signed with his cipher name. See document 41. The only way to apply that Von Boelke had, in the opinion of his good friend Zalkind, a means of internal observation at the American embassy.

DOCUMENT NO. 39.

(Counter-Espionage at the Stavka, No. 368, Jan. 25, 1918.)

VERY SECRET.

To the Commission on Combating the Counter-Revolution:

The chief of the Army at the Stavka there took place a conference at which there participated Major von Boehlke, assigned from Petrograd. It was decided, upon the insistence of the German consulate, to send to the internal fronts the following persons, furnishing them all powers for dealing with individual counter-revolutionaries:

To the Don—Zhitkorev, Rudnev, Krogulin and Ernest Delfan.

To the Caucasus Front: Vassili Dumbadze, Prince Machabelli, Sevastianov and Ter-Saharin.

To the 1st Polish Corps of Gen. Dovbor-Meistirky are assigned Demiansky, Stetkun, Zhimitlis, and Gisman.

Be so good as to take all measures for the quick assignment and the adequate furnishing of the assigned persons with documents, passports, and other documents.—Senior officer, Peter Mirenov.

NOTE—This is an assassination order against individuals. It was not successful against the Polish general. Dembidze and Prince Machabelli were German spies implicated in the Sukhomlinoff affair and sentenced to prison, but afterwards liberated by the Bolsheviks. Ernst Col. Dembilitz was a Bolshevik Polish officer. Bakurin was an assistant chief of staff under Krilenko. The letter is indorsed "Comrad Lunarcharsky, leave with report for Comrade Zenowieff," signature illegible.

DOCUMENT NO. 40.

(Counter espionage at the Stavka, No. 51-572, Jan. 19, 1918.)

To the Commission for Combating the Counter-Revolution:

There have been received two notes addressed to the supreme commander from the staffs of the Austrian and German high commands. These notes inform the Stavka that the organizer of the volunteer army in the Don region, General Alexieff, is in written communication with the officer personnel of the Polish legions at the front, with the view of getting the help of Polish officers in the counter-revolution.

This information has been received by the Austrian agents from the Polish Bolshevik Comrade Zhuk, who played a large part at Minsk during the November and December battles. On the other side, the representative of the German government, Count Lerchenfeldt, reports of the rapidly growing movement in Poland in favor of the bourgeoisie estate owners' imperialistic plan to defend with arms the greatest possible independence of Poland, with the broadening of its frontiers at the expense of Lithuania, White Russia and Galicia.

PLOTTED AGAINST POLAND.

This movement is actively supported by the popular democratic party in Warsaw, as well as Petrograd, by military organizations guided by the counter-revolutionary estate owners and the bourgeoisie Polish clergy.

The situation which has arisen was discussed on the 16th of January at the Stavka in the presence of Major von Raehlke, sent the Petrograd branch of the German Intelligence bureau, and it was there decided:

1—To take the most decisive measures, up to shooting en masse, against the Polish troops which have submitted to the counter-revolution and imperialistic propaganda.

2—To arrest General Dovbor-Meinitzky.

3—To arrange a surveillance of the commanding personnel.

4—Send agitators to the Polish legions to consult regarding the Polish revolutionary organizations known to the committee.

5—On learning of the counter-revolutionary activity of Polish officers to immediately arrest them and send them to the Stavka to the disposal of the Counter-Espionage.

6—To arrest the emissaries of General Alexieff, Staff Captain Shuravsky, and Captain Rushitzky.

7—To request the Commission for Combating the Counter-Revolution with agreement with the German intelligence bureau at Petrograd to arrange a surveillance and observation of the following institutions and persons:

(a) The high Polish committee.

(b) The Society of Friends of the Polish Soldier.

(c) Inter-Party Union.

(d) The Union of Polish Invalids.

(e) Members of the Polish Kolo of the former state Douma and council.

(f) The chairman, Lednitzky, and the members of the former committee for the liquidation of affairs of the Polish Kingdom.

(g) Boleslav Jalovesky.

(h) Vladislav Grabsky.

(i) Stanislav Shuritsky.

(j) Roman Catholic Polish clergy.

(k) The Polish treasury, through which, according to agency reports, the governments of countries allied with Russia intend, with the assistance of the New York National City Bank, to supply with monetary resources the counter-revolutionary camp.

It is necessary to verify the private reports of several Lithuanian revolutionaries that among the church benevolent funds, which are at the disposal of the Polish clergy, are the capitals of private persons who hid their money from requisition for the benefit of the state.

In case of establishment of any connection with the counter revolution the guilty Polish institutions are to be liquidated, their leaders and also persons connected with the counter-revolutionary activity are to be arrested and sent to the disposal of the Stavka.—For Chief of the Counter Espionage, Commissar Kalmanovich.

Note—Again Germany, through Count Lerchenfeldt, was intriguing on both sides. Chiefly, however, the significance of the letter is in the thoroughness of the outlined German plan to crush the threat of armed opposition from the Polish legions of the Russian army.

The troops were fired upon, as indicated. The succeeding document really follows this in natural sequence. The next two further elucidate the situation for the benefit of the Poles of the outside world.

Have photograph of letter.

DOCUMENT NO. 41.

(Counter Espionage at the Stavka, No. 461, Jan. 28, 1918.)

To the Commission for Combating the Counter-Revolution:

The special commission on the conflict with the Polish counter-revolutionary troops has begun its activity. All the conduct of its affairs has been located at the counter-espionage at the Stavka, where is being collected all information on the counter-revolution on the external and internal fronts.

At the commission have arrived members of the Commission for Combating the Counter-Revolution, E. Miekonashin, I. Zenzinov, Zhilinski, and from the Novatopol Comrade Thurk. To a conference were called agents announcing their wish to be sent for conflict with the bourgeoisie Polish officers—Dembitsky, Boleslav, Yakushinski, Tarasevsky, Yasenitsky and Adanovicen.

All these agents are under obligation to carry the affair to the point of open insubordination of the soldiers against the officers and the arrest of the latter.

For emergency the commander in chief ordered to assign Nakhim Shor and Ilya Razymov for the destruction of the counter-revolutionary ringleaders among the Polish troops, and the commission recognized the possibility of declaring all Polish troops outside the law when that measure should present itself as imperative.

Petrograd observers announced that the Polish organizations are displaying great reserve and caution in mutual relations. There has been established, however, an uninterrupted contact between the high military council located in Petrograd and the Polish officers and soldiers of the bourgeoisie estate-owning class with the counter-revolutionary Polish troops.

On this matter, in the Commissariat on Military Affairs, there took place a conference at a conference of comrades Podvoisky, Kedrov, Borotskov, Dybenko and Kovalsky. The Commissariat on Foreign Affairs announced that the sailors Trushkin, Markin, Palnikutis and Sedkin demand the dismissal of the Polish troops, and threaten, in case it is refused, assaults on the Polish legionaires in Petrograd.

SOUGHT AID OF SAILORS.

The commander-in-chief suggests that it might be possible to direct the rage of the sailors mentioned, and of their group, to the front against the counter-revolutionary Polish troops.

At the present time our agitation among the Polish troops is being carried on in very active fashion and there is great hope for the disorganization of the Polish legionaires.—Chief of Counter-Espionage, Feierabend.

NOTE—Have photograph of letter.

DOCUMENT NO. 42.

(Counter Espionage at the Stavka, Jan. 28, 1918.)

To the Commission for Combating the Counter-Revolution:

At the request of the commander-in-chief, in answer to your inquiry, I inform you, supplementary to the dispatch, that the funds sent with Major Bayer-Pomeister have been received here. Among the troops acting on the front against the counter-revolutionaries have been prepared several battalions for conflict with the Poles and Rumanians.

We will pay 12 roubles a day, with an increased food ration. From the hired sections sent against the legionaries have been formed two companies, one from the best shots for the shooting of officers of regiments, the other of Lithuanians and Letts for the theft of food reserves in Vitebsk, Minsk, and Mogilev governments, in the places where the Polish troops are situated.

Various local peasants have also agreed to attack the regiments and exterminate them.—Commissar O. Mosholov.

See these Filene $25 men's suits now at

Sold at the lowest price at which it is safe to buy clothes now, it is unnecessary to tell Filene patrons that these are no ordinary suits. From a long-established Filene maker, it is astonishing, even to those who know how strictly Filene standards are maintained, how much honest, wholesome value has been put into them.

Perhaps you're resigned to not getting the old-time suit-value in war-time suits at $25. Yet in no essential particular will these suits fail of your approval. Fabrics? Worth while! Styles? The newest! Making itself? Sure; hand tailored wherever hand tailoring counts.

In plain Oxford worsted serges and cheviots, in homespuns, in brown, blue or gray flannels, in overplaid stripes. Full lined or quarter lined. Plain or crescent pockets. In a word, in all the customary Filene wide assortment.

To buy one or more of them is not only patriotic economy—with another Liberty Loan just 'round the corner—but also wise judgment. For there's a maximum of wear for the money, and all reasonable style along with the wear. Young men with quiet tastes who are in essential industries, and men of all ages awaiting a possible call, who need a "fill in" suit, will jump at these.

Additional* style and wear, of course, in a Filene or Stein-Bloch suit, $30 to $55

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Elevation of Archbishop George W. Mundelein of the archdiocese of Chicago in the cardinalate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Cardinal Farley, is believed among Chicago Catholic clergymen as among the strong probabilities. # Whole German Band Captured at St. Mihiel

By International News Service.

Paris, Sept. 19.—A complete German band of sixty-two pieces was captured at St. Mihiel, according to Paul Payne of West New York, N. J. Payne, who is secretary to the commanding officer, has returned to Paris.

"That did not look like a voluntary retirement when the Germans did not even take the band with them," declared Payne. "We could not keep the German bandsmen at the front to play for us. They were sent back as prisoners, but we kept the instruments. Our own bandsmen immediately Americanized them by playing 'Yankee Doodle' on the German instruments.

Payne also told of the capture of thirty-six new German motor trucks freshly painted with the Prussian eagle on them. "Our boys," he said, "painted a 'Y' over the Prussian eagle and above it a crowing cock. The trucks are now being used as an ammunition train to take ammunition to our front lines."

REVENUE BILL PROVISO HITS CHILD LABOR

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Although several proposed amendments, in addition to certain provisions passed over by agreement yesterday, engaged the attention of the House today when it resumed consideration of the $8,132,492,000 revenue bill, House leaders clung to their prediction that the measure would be voted on before the week-end.

A proposed occupational head tax of $10 is yet to be disposed of, while an amendment offered by Representative Moore of Pennsylvania to tax raw cotton $3 a bale, and another amendment proposed by Representative Green of Iowa to levy a flat 5 per cent. tax on child labor products are still to be voted upon.

The Green amendment is aimed at employers of children under 14 years old and of children between 14 and 16 years who work more than six days a week, eight hour a day or at night.

Certain features of the proposed taxation on admissions to amusements or entertainments are among other provisions still to be acted on, as is the definition of toilet soap, as well as to the taxing of billboards and bill posters.

The 170th of the 190 pages of the voluminous measure had been reached when the House took it up again today, 116 pages having been read yesterday.

DR. E. M. HOLMES DROWNED IN HULL BAY

Dr. Edgar M. Holmes, throat and nose specialist of No. 581 Beacon street, was drowned, and his son Edward, 15, had a narrow escape from the same fate in Hull Bay today. The physician and his son had gone out in a canoe towards their power boat moored some distance from the shore. The canoe capsized. The son supported his father and clung to the overturned boat for some time. Before help could come from the shore, however, the boy's strength gave out and he was forced to let go of the father, who sank.

Dr. Holmes is survived by his widow, two daughters and his son.

He graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1894, and attained great success as a specialist on the nose, throat and ear. He had been connected with the Boston City and St. Elizabeth's Hospitals, the Massachusetts Infant Asylum and the Boston Dispensary. In the Dorchester Municipal Court today, Albert Zallon, of Harlem street, convicted of selling impure cider vinegar was fined $20 and paid. Dr. James O. Jordan of the city bureau of inspection was the complainant.

GASTON CLUB HEAD GETS AFTER MR. LONG

The alleged attempt of Candidate Richard H. Long to secure favorable notice from a Springfield paper by the loss of money was denounced today by John R. McVey, president of the Gaston club of Boston. "Only another disclosure of Mr. Long's boodle campaign to buy the Democratic nomination," declared Mr. McVey.

The Gaston club has opened headquarters at No. 15 Congress street. Gaston speakers today addressed rallies at the Walworth plant, South Boston; the Roxbury Carpet Company, Roxbury, and at the Plant Shoe Company, Jamaica Plain.

Tonight rallies for Colonel Gaston will be held in Hayes square, Charlestown; Central square, Cambridge, and Roxbury Crossing. A drive on the towns on Cape Cod will be made Saturday.

CORNS LIFT OUT! COSTS FEW CENTS

Drops of magic! Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little Freezone on a touchy corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it off with the fingers. No pain! Try it!

Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without soreness or irritation. Freezone is the much talked of discovery of the Cincinnati genius.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

NEW STORE FOR WOMEN'S GOODS ATTRACTIVE

Jays, Inc., Open Welcome Place of Business on Temple Place

The curtains are blue—long and soft and trailing.

The carpets are Chinese—blue and yellow and imperial.

Soft lace, in creamy folds, dilutes the light, beneath the overdraperies of blue.

And the intimateness, not to say the faint mystery, of the boudoir is all about. For this is Jays, Inc., of Temple place, new store of feminine things apart, which opened its doors to Mrs. Shopper, out a purchasing, this Thursday morning.

"Brave" said you to the Messrs. Jay, as you and they stood on the blue carpet of one of the salons, admiring even as the rest, "Brave, it was in you, Messrs. Jay, to open a new store, even of feminine things, in a warring world. Do—well—how did you have the courage?"

And the gentlemen who are responsible for the blue and gold salons, smiled and flung back a sturdy denial.

EXPERIENCED AT BUSINESS.

"Brave—ah, no! Old hands we, at the business of serving up to woman, bless her, what she likes to wear, so we are not afraid to open a new store, even in a warring world. We all have to wear something, you know. Just look about and see if you feel that there is nothing you would not like to buy—after you have looked."

Which was done. Which also was seen, and shown, and admired. The gowns, and waists, and cloaks, and suits.

From glass-mirrored doors that slid back into grooves, disclosing panelling of the specious days of the Louis, the gowns and things were seen.

Soft, fluffy, furry creations of Georgette, and silk and lace. Things to wear when you go a-teaing in particular; things to wear when the very nicest on your list comes to call of a pleasant evening. Things to wear, delicate, delicious, provocative things to wear, when that horrid Mrs. Brown, your neighbor, who prides herself on her clothes, is looking your way, green with envy.

Envy of your gown, of course. For here they were, at Jays. And here they were taken out and admired, as deft little salesgirls held them up to the light.

But it is not only the flossiest of dresses that repose behind the glass panelling at Jays. They are also serviceable, in autumnal colors, warm, considerate inspiring, reposes the Winter suit of many a woman who, just now, is not hunting that Winter suit.

OF COURSE SHE BUYS.

Until she looks in at blue curtained windows, of a new little store, on Temple Place. And sees something that lures her within. And views waists and suits and gowns galore, and makes her selection.

And then?

Stupid—superfluous question "and then."

Why, then, of course, she takes it home and shows it to her husband. Who says, "my dear Maria, you look like a fundamental the last gown I ever you looked in your life."

Which is the end of the story, with everybody happy. In the meantime the new store is showing its treasures, beginning today.

THRILLS COME RAPIDLY IN "HAND OF VENGEANCE"

The fight in the desert, thrilling scene in "The Hand of Vengeance," Gaumont's amazing mystery serial soon to be shown in theatres all over New England.

SYMPHONY CHOOSES WELL

By FRED J. McISAAC.

The selection of Pierre Monteux, French conductor of the Metropolitan Opera Company to lead the Boston Symphony Orchestra during its first month probably means that the negotiations which the directors of the orchestra have been carrying on for several months with one or two of the greatest symphonic leaders in the allied countries will bear fruit in a short time.

Mr. Monteux, himself, is no more stopgap. He was one of the most distinguished symphonists in Paris, and he was largely responsible for the terrific vogue of the Russian ballet in the European capitals before the war, since he conducted the orchestra for their various seasons in London, Paris, Monte Carlo and Vienna. As those who saw the Russians remember a very large part of their success was due to the wonderful symphonic music to which they danced.

Monteux came to Boston two seasons ago with the Russian ballet headed by Nijinsky, and was engaged for the Metropolitan at the conclusion of that season. His engagement with the Metropolitan probably precludes his remaining in Boston after October.

The delay in selecting a new conductor for the Symphony is only due to the intense desire of the directors to bring the greatest living leader available to Boston.

It must be remembered that when the war broke out all the acknowledged leaders among symphony conductors were Germans or Austrians. Muck, Gericke, Fiedler, Weingartner and Nikisch were all enemy aliens.

Toscanini alone, among Italians, had much symphony experience and he was par excellence an operatic conductor. Rachmaninoff, the Russian composer, was an admirable conductor, but the unhappy condition of his country and the possibility that it might be dragged into the war against us made the directors hesitate to secure him.

The bitter experience of the Boston orchestra, with Doctor Muck, made the new directors determined to choose only a man who came from an allied country.

Why not an American, you ask.

Because American conductors with sufficient talent and experience to lead a mighty orchestra like the Boston Symphony were very scarce and those few not available, and because the Boston Symphony Orchestra without the very greatest available conductor would not be worthy of its reputation.

A word about the orchestra. War conditions have affected it seriously, but the changes in its personnel amounts to less than a third of its membership. The determination of the directors to carry none but American citizens or citizens of Allied countries this season caused the release of about twenty-five men, several of them superb musicians, including Anton Witek, the concert master.

Their places have been taken by first class men. The French band which visited this country last season enabled the orchestra to replace the Germans in the wind section with equally good men while Francs and America have given of its best to fill the vacancies in the strings.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, despite its losses, will still be the finest band in the world.

NEW HERO A WINNER LIKE MONTE CRISTO

Not since the days of Raffles has a character appeared so striking, so picturesque, so sympathetic and so perplexed as that of John Ulius, the master criminal in "The Hand of Vengeance." Gaumont's ten episode serial soon to be shown in theatres all over New England.

To play the two great roles of the master criminal and the great detective, Gaumont imported two of the cleverest actors of the French wing of the company, men who are wonderful pantomimists, vigorous actors and fine personalities, Gaston Larinx and Etienne Bourget are names to conjure with in the French motion picture world.

The "Hand of Vengeance" is a rapid-fire series of adventures and thrills. Life is lightly held by Ulius, and the hairbreadth escapes, gruesome crimes and daring escapades keep the audience on tenterhooks.

Ulius is a Monte Cristo-like character, returning from the dead after many years to take vengeance upon the friend who robbed and betrayed him. The act of treachery which makes him an outlaw is shown in the prologue and enables you to lend him a trifle of sympathy in his dealings with the law. The picture is released by the Gordon-Mayer Film Co.

BETTER THAN HIS NEIGHBOR

Emerson, when he quoted his mouse-trap story, told of the man who made better than his neighbor being the one who would be assured success. The same truth holds with the theatre that, though limited to the same materials, presents them to the public better than its neighbor. This is why the LOEW'S GLOBE THEATRE has been doing with its motion picture programs, and that is why there has grown a large and constantly increasing clientele for the house. It is proving better than its neighbors in that there is established the programs of the best pictures in generous measure and presented in a perfect manner.

Here is a fair sample of the program, which will continue for the remainder of the week: DOROTHY DALTON in "Vive la France"; LILA LEE in "Cruise of the Make-Believes," and FATTY ARBUCKLE in "The Cook."

The Fable of the Little Boy and the Great Treasure

By RALPH FRYE.

ONCE upon a Time there was a Little Boy whose Father was a Soldier and had gone across the Seas to fight in the Wars.

This Little Boy and his Mother lived alone on the Pittance which they received from the Soldier's Pay and were Very Poor and not Very Happy, always.

But some Days they were Very Happy indeed because what his Mother called a French Boat would come mysteriously from Somewhere and then there would be letters from across the Ocean with Messages for the Little Boy from his Father, and, while his Mother read them over and over, he would go out and tell the Boy Next Door about it.

"I got a Letter from my Father in France," he would say, "He's going to Bring me a German Helmet when he comes Home for Christmas."

But the Boy Next Door was not impressed and would only scoff and say, "Aw, that ain't nothin.' What Good are they? My Brother is a Sailor in the "Little Building" an' when he comes Home Tonight he's going to Buy me a Dog."

It seemed to the Little Boy that there was something fearfully Unjust somewhere. He wished he could have a Dog.

One Day the Boy's Mother had been Reading in the Newspaper and said to him:

"Jack, Hereafter, every time you see a Peach Stone you must Bring it Home and Save it. Save all you can Find. Go out looking for them." The Boy took his Cue from the Boy Next Door.

"Aw, what good are they!" he asked. "They're only thrown away by people that Eat the Peaches. I don't want to Save 'em. What do you want me to Save 'Em for? I wish I had a Dog, instead."

So she Explained to him as Well as she could about German Gas and about Gas Masks. "And Besides," she ended, "when you are looking for Peach Stones you may find a Treasure Chest with the Corner just Sticking out of the Ground."

So next Morning the Little Boy Started out looking for Peach Stones. He Worked all Morning and he found a Great many Stones. He also Picked up and brought Home 10 Cents, a Broken Key and the Brass Plate off a Dog Collar. When his Mother Counted the Peach Stones at Night she found he had Saved just 200 Stones.

"But I didn't find the Treasure, Mother," he said. "Do you suppose I'll find it?" And she told him she was Almost Sure he would.

For a Long Time the Little Boy kept at his Peach Stone Gathering until he had Collected Thousands of Peach Stones, which his Mother sent through the Red Cross to the Army to be made into Gas Masks for Soldiers. It became known in the Neighborhood that he was Saving them and Housekeepers used to Watch for him and give him Whole Pecks from their canning. In all he saved enough Peach Stones to make many Gas Masks. But he never found the Treasure.

One Day, Months Later, he went Home from School to find his Mother Bright-Eyed but Tearful, waiting for him on the Steps. As he went up the Walk he Heard a Man's Voice in the House Talking to the Woman from Upstairs. He was saying: "It was the Gas Masks that Saved us, Mrs. Brown, the Gas Masks made by you People over here who Saved their Peach Stones." The little Boy's Mother put her Arm around him.

"If you will go into the House, Son," she said, "I think you'll find the Treasure after all."

And with a Queer Throb in his Throat, the Little Boy entered the House to Throw himself into the Arms of the Big Soldier who was there.

He didn't Even Look at the Bronze Helmet on the Table or the German Police Dog which was tied to the leg of a Chair.

MAYOR'S SONS PEACH STONE COLLECTORS

Andrew J., Alanson and John Peters Equipped with Badges and Bags

The three sons of Mayor Andrew J. Peters, Andrew J., Alanson and John Peters, are the newest recruits in the regiment which is saving peach stones for the United States government. The three boys have been supplied with bags and badges by the AMERICAN and have started in hotfoot to look at the Peters farm at Dover for peach stones to put into the bags.

Definite results of the Boston AMERICAN'S peach stone drive are beginning to show in the large numbers of peach stones which have been turned in by the boys and girls to the Red Cross stations and the public schools. In all of these receiving stations bushels of these stones and other fruit pits have been brought and they are rapidly swelling the grand total of the collection.

It takes 200 peach stones to make one gas mask for a soldier. Every boy and girl who has the slightest spark of patriotism should be gathering peach stones. Not to gather them is to help the Germans.

The Boston AMERICAN peach stone truck, with Messrs. Sheard, Corb and Dunn singing "Everything is Peaches Down in Georgia," appeared today at Union square, Somerville, where the trio boomed peach stone collection. Tomorrow this truck will appear at Coolidge Corner, Brookline, and Saturday at City square, Charlestown. The truck, a Mack-Wells, has been furnished by the C. E. Fay-Allen Company; the piano, a Jewett, by the M. Steinert Sons Company, and the trio with the song are donated to the cause by the Leo Feist Publishing Company.

Boys and Girls Are Wanted to Gather Peach Stones

PEACH stones to go into the manufacture of gas masks are wanted by the United States Government.

The Boston AMERICAN is trying to help the Government get these stones and wants boys and girls to collect them. This paper will furnish a badge of service to each boy and girl who applies.

There will be a barrel for the reception of peach stones in every public school in Boston, Cambridge and Somerville. In other places the local branch of the Red Cross will receive them.

It takes 200 peach stones to make one gas mask for one soldier. Why don't boys and girls act themselves to supply five soldiers! One thousand peach stones will do it. Get them from housewives, fruit stores, pick them up on the street or buy peaches and save the stones. Be sure and dry the stones.

GIVE YOUR MITE FOR BENEFIT OF SOLDIERS

Have you given to the Wounded Soldiers' Fund?

If you have, many thanks in behalf of our returned heroes, from the AMERICAN and from the Boston City Hospital.

If you have not—do you ever buy yourself an ice cream soda? Any other kind of drink? A cut sundae?

Do you ever smoke cigarettes? Cigars? A pipe?

Do you ever eat candy?

Do you ever chew gum?

The price of any one of these little luxuries would buy a luxury for one of our wounded boys. Or it would go into the fund to be used for necessary car fares, stamps for letters, or a dozen and the "home folks" to say that their boy is safe in a home hospital.

Of course, the boys get paid, but Uncle Sam has moved some of them about so far that they have outdistanced the paymaster. Some of the boys have not been paid for months now, not for seven months; others, not for six months. In the meantime, while they have lived necessities, they have not many extra comforts.

Mrs. Andrew J. Peters, wife of the Mayor of Boston, is treasurer of the AMERICAN'S Fund for Wounded Soldiers, and the fund is administered by Dr. Edmund W. Wilson, acting superintendent of the City Hospital. The fund to date is $1,543.37.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

The "Long-Green" Method

The Springfield Republican is witness of a bald attempt on the part of a representative of Mr. Long's campaign committee to secure political preference for Mr. Long in its news columns. A representative of the Long management came to the Republican office Monday evening while the Long spellbinders were in the city, and crudely offered to pay the paper's political reporter a stipulated amount if he "could see his way clear to give unusual prominence to news concerning Mr. Long's candidacy between now and the State primaries."

The representative explained that he was limited in dealing with reporters, but impudently claimed that the amount might be raised provided the case was put up to Martin Hall, Mr. Long's manager, or Mr. Long himself. "Of course," he explained assuringly, "nobody will know anything about it. All we want is to see that you use all the Long stuff you can. We know that if you get a little on the side you will take more interest in Mr. Long's candidacy and will do a good job for him."—Springfield Republican, September 18, 1918.

RAPID DECLINE OF INFLUENZA AT RADIO

U. S. Naval Radio School, Cambridge, Sept. 19.—Radio officials are elated today over the rapid decline in the number of cases of Spanish influenza at this station.

Along with the report of the First Naval District authorities that the malady is well under control and that its early total eradication is expected, Radio School today had fewer new cases than on any previous day.

The percentage of reduction is very high, it was learned, and hopes are entertained that still fewer cases will be reported during the next few days.

A great number of patients have been discharged as cured, and others, having been under suspicion of being afflicted with the malady and found to be suffering from nothing more than a cold, were discharged after observation, thus materially lessening the number of actual sufferers from influenza.

There is little likelihood now that the epidemic is well under check, that a reversal of conditions will occur. The medical authorities have kept strictest watch over all students suspected of being afflicted and the immediate treatment of these cases has been responsible for the holding of the epidemic under a tight rein.

The medical authorities at the Radio School have not as yet resorted to the use of the serum, reported to have been discovered by Dr. Leary of Tufts Medical School. Use may be made of the serum at a later date, but no announcement has been made as to the intention of using it at Radio School.

Buck Private from Alabama Keeps His Word

Paris, Sept. 18.—"Rev." Arthur Jefferson is his name. Before the war he used to "preach 'roun'" in northern Alabama. Now he's the buckest buck private in a negro regiment that has already earned fame in the line. He evolved the perfect answer to Prussian theology fifteen minutes after he got into that line. The Germans opposite—it was a quiet sector—had hung out a big sign bearing the Potsdam profanation "Gott mit uns."

Arthur Jefferson took one long look at it. Then he disappeared into a dugout. He appeared late with the legend laboriously inscribed on the top of a biscuit box:

"Germans: Consign your souls to the Lord. In four minutes your bodies going to belong to Alabama."

And they did.

23RD TO MAKE LONG MARCH FRIDAY

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, Sept. 19.—With the completion of the new laundry building which is in process of construction near the main entrance to this cantonment, a more centralized method of washing and ironing clothes will be established and much of the confusion which now obtains will be eliminated, according to an army official.

The building is of wood with a concrete foundation and will come under the direct supervision of the government. The contractor who is putting up the structure feels that it will be ready for occupancy shortly.

Civilians' and soldiers' clothes of the underwear variety, shirts, collars and blankets will be washed at a reasonable rate. Modern machinery will be used in carrying on this work. Expert employes in that line of activity will be employed. A number of the employes will, it is stated, be women.

A system of checking clothes on receipt and delivery will facilitate their handling and make sure of accuracy and direct delivery to the owners.

The need of such a building has been felt here for a long time. From a governmental viewpoint the building and its material and help will be subservient at all times to the supervision of the military authorities.

Practical instruction for telephone linemen connected with the signal platoons will start Monday, September 30. Liason instruction of the signal platoons of headquarters companies is now being given and will continue up to and including October 7.

Two hours daily are given to buzzer practice and sound reading only, divided into half or three-quarter hour periods, one period in the morning. Tests for speed will be made Friday and sent to Lieutenant Paul Gerard.

Private Christopher Ghilani of Company No. 24 Depot Brigade is a former U. S. deputy marshal. His home is in Marlboro. He is anxious to get over to France to take part in the big drive to begin.

A concentration march will start from here tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. Soldiers of the 23d Brigade will take part. One regiment will go by way of the bayonet field, Shirley road, and the other by way of Robbins Pond, Cold Spring, Cranberry Pond, where the brigade will bivouac for the night, taking advantage of the opportunity to obtain the maximum instructions.

The brigade will break camp Saturday morning in time to form in line of massed in its drill ground by 10 a. m. the same roads being used as tomorrow, but by different regiments. Arrangements have been made to have three meals served to the men during the manoeuvres when en route.

Rich "Tiger" Smith Going to Fight; Lacks Coal

New York, Sept. 19.—Although six times a millionaire, with a wife and four step-children, "Tiger" (John T.) Smith, erstwhile medical student and boxer, plans to fight for democracy and to send his family South for the Winter because they cannot secure coal. "Tiger's" six and a quarter millions neither exempt him from military service nor obtain for him the wherewithal to stoke the furnace. He plans to work for a lieutenant's commission.

CELEBRATE PERSHING'S VICTORY WITH PARADE

MAJOR WOUNDED 36 TIMES, NOW IN BOSTON

Major Raymond L. Leonat, head of a French Military Mission in the Department of the Northeast, who is a hospital in Paris to come to Boston, after being confined there thirty-one months with wounds, is cried away with his new position in Boston.

"Every one likes Boston, the French especially," he remarked smiling. "It's just like a European city. You make people feel at home. Americans and French people must see more of each other after this war is over. I believe that is one of the good things of the war. It will draw us more together. Every American will want to speak French and every Frenchman in the future will want to speak English."

Major Leonat was born near Bordeaux and received his first military commission as second lieutenant at the military school of Saint Cyr. He was afterward captain in one of the Parisian regiments. He was wounded in the First Battle of the Marne in four places.

In Lorraine in 1916 he was with General Bouchet and at Verdun with General Caron and in 1917 at Rheims.

He was wounded thirty-six times in different parts of the body. His life was once despaired of, but through the skill of French surgeons and his rugged constitution, he was able to recover.

His three medals are "The Legion of Honor," "Croix de Guerre" and "Palm Academique."

$25 to $50

NEVER was the honesty and ingenuity of an organization put so thoroughly to the test as in these war times.

Still the House of Morse is captained by veterans in facing obstacles. The Civil War, the Spanish War and the War for Liberty find us meeting and hurdling every barrier in our path.

The scars of business conflict have never tarnished the mighty reputation and weight of this house with the thinking men of New England in any ordeal. The House of Morse was never better equipped to give "value," that by comparison would shame those who cry "value," as the word is misused.

Value is the basic principle and the cornerstone that this house has builded upon for sixty-six years, and it will never be shattered.

We ask your close and critical inspection of this season's Morse-Made Clothes. Every suit, no matter what its price, represents the third-speed of value.

AIR SERVICE, NAVY AND MARINE CORPS OPENED FOR ENLISTMENTS

BOARDS TO RELEASE DRAFTEES

Placed in the Deferred Classes Must First Waive Exemptions

Washington, Sept. 19.—The air service has been reopened for induction of mechanics and of candidates for commissions, irrespective of their standing in the draft.

Registrants of dates earlier than the September 12 registration now can be inducted into the various branches of the service which may wish them and into which they may wish to enter.

After October 1 registrants of the date of September 12 may be inducted into the service under similar conditions and irrespective of their standing and classification in the draft.

Though the wide open volunteering system may never again be in effect, nevertheless a method is open to any registrant again who does not want to await his call to choose the service he desires.

LIFT BAN ON NAVY.

A circular from the Provost Marshal-General's office to the draft executives in all States, in effect, extends this privilege to the Navy and Marine Corps, also. The circular provides the method for meeting the man-power requirements of those two branches of the military establishment.

When the marines or the navy need men the Secretary of the Navy will notify the Provost Marshal, who will allot the total among the various States and call upon the Governors more of the States to furnish each his quota.

The Governor, through the Adjutant-General, will certify the number of men desired to the local boards, which will, in turn, take them from the highest in Class 1, or such class as the navy may be available. Navy and Marine Corps requirements will be met in turn with army requirements from the draft registrants.

The selective service regulations provide, however, that men in Class 1 shall low down in the order list, though his list may be full ahead of him, may waive his call for induction and on written request to his local board may be advanced to inclusion in the next requisition made upon the board.

MUST WAIVE EXEMPTIONS.

In the cases of men in the deferred classification the provisions are:

1—If he is in Class 2, 3 or 4 he shall file with his local board a waiver of all claims of deferred classification.

2—If he is in Class 4 on the grounds of dependency he must accompany his application and waiver with a letter from those persons on behalf of whom he was placed in Class 4.

Men who desire immediate entrance in the Army or Navy or Marine Corps, and this applies after October 1 to those who registered September 12, should see the proper authorities in the branch they desire to enter and have that authority make requisition on the Provost Marshal-General for them.

They should file the proper affidavits with their local boards. Then when the requisitions come to the local board from the office of the Provost Marshal-General they will be released to their desired service by the local board and their board will be credited with their induction.

If they fail to make application through the department in which they wish induction and merely file the affidavit and waiver with the local board they will be certified out to service on the next call for whatever branch it may be.

The bid has been on volunteering for the aviation service more than for any other branch of the military establishment. It resulted from the tremendous rush of men to enter.

SEEK YOUTHFUL FLYERS.

The age limits for fliers is from eighteen to thirty with preference for those under twenty-five and for mechanics eighteen to fifty-five. Applicants for flying can apply to any of the aviation examining boards and for mechanics at any of the air service test boards, or for either of the personnel section, Division of Military Aeronautics, Washington, D. C.

A formal estimate from the office of the Provost Marshal-General on the total registration September 12 places the figures at 12,570,000 or above.

Expert Advice on How to Fill Out Questionnaire

This is the eleventh article in the series by the Boston AMERICAN on filling out a questionnaire, and is of great importance to farmers, fruit growers, milk raisers or persons employed in any of these occupations, since it explains what questions must be answered in order to make a claim for exemption.

There are altogether nearly half a hundred questions, most of which must be answered by a registrant seeking deferred classification on the ground that he is of more importance in this work than he would be in the army. If this hits you, read the questions and answers carefully.

A half answer may be looked upon by a draft board as an attempt to evade giving complete information, and may result in the registrant's being placed in the first class.

If you have not followed this series through there may be some doubt in your mind how you ought to proceed to claim exemption, whether for dependency or on grounds of industrial necessity. If so, get the back numbers of the AMERICAN and find out.

Series 12. Agricultural Occupation.

Q. 1—Are you engaged in an agricultural enterprise?

Ans.—Give a direct answer, "Yes" or "No." If "No" pay no attention to the rest of the questions in Series 12, and do not sign your name at the end of this series.

Q. 2—Do you claim deferred classification on the ground that you are so engaged?

Ans.—Give a direct answer, "Yes" or "No."

Q. 3—How long have you worked at farming and what special training have you had?

Ans.—Give number of years so engaged. If you have had special training, state its nature, such as a course at an agricultural college.

Q. 4—State the nature of your present enterprise, (such as general farming, fruit raising, cattle ranch).

Ans.—If you do general farming, so state. If you raise milk, state "milk farm," or fruit, "fruit farm," or "market gardener," whatever term will best describe the kind of farm you have.

Q. 5—Are you the directing and managing head of the enterprise?

Ans.—Give a direct answer, "Yes" or "No."

Q. 6—State whether you are a laborer, overseer, hired manager, sharecropper, lessee or owner of the farm, and if none of these terms indicate your connection with the farm state what it is.

Ans.—Use one of the terms given which will, in turn, take them from the highest in Class 1, or such class as there may be available. Navy and Marine Corps requirements will be met in turn with army requirements from the draft registrants.

The selective service regulations provide, however, that men in Class 1 shall low down in the order list, though his list may be full ahead of him, may waive his call for induction and on written request to his local board may be advanced to inclusion in the next requisition made upon the board.

"War-Kickers," Take Notice! 8753 is Your Number!

The latest "epiddoo" number for war-kickers—8753.

It carries a government punch.

If you hear someone abusing the War Department or giving unpatriotic criticism, just say:

"Eighty-seven-fifty-three for you!"

It is better than the old "Twenty-three for you." For 8753 is the official number of the Sedition Bill, which carries 20 years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine for profane, scurrilous or abusive talk about our government or its officials.

Queer thing—add up the digits in 8753. Total—23.

Ans.—Draft Editor will you inform me to what class (according to law) has been a decision from my United States navy before the war. I was honorably discharged. He has never been discharged from the President. Does it exempt me? U. W. S.

Draft Editor: Are chauffeurs registering in class one? Are they subject to draft?

ROBERT B. ROBERTS.

Ans.—Yes, they cannot be granted non-Canadian army. They may submit in Canadian army and if they are drafted from there will automatically become subject to the United States draft.

Draft Editor: Kindly answer this question: Is there any law or Congress, approved July 9, 1918, suspending the withdrawing of intention to become a citizen of the United States and take into consideration the drafters of 1917?

J. DEASBY, Camp Devens.

Ans.—No, it is not retroactive.

Draft Editor: I was born in Russian Polish declaration, having parents, brothers and relatives in Germany. Can I withdraw my declaration under the act which Congress passed May 9, 1918, and become entitled to enter the country to withdraw his declaration if he wished to do so? I would like to have this question settled as I don't want to claim exemption if it is not necessary.

JOE REMSKY, Boston.

Ans.—No, because Russia is not a belligerent country.

Draft Editor: Will you kindly advise me what the status of common law marriage is? If seven years' residence in a State will suffice to create any information you may be able to give in connection with the new draft regarding the above.

L. M. B., Boston.

Ans.—Your question is unanswerable. On general principles common law marriages is recognized in the United States. If you have a common law marriage and wish a party to a contract or transaction referred to make any claim for exemption referred to the classification of the local adviser at the office of your local board. Explain all the circumstances and follow his advice. It will cost you nothing.

THE BURDEN OF PROOF

A Stirring New Serial of Love and Intrigue

THE WORLD'S RIGHTS RELEASED BY THE SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

Watch for This Wartime Romance Starring the Popular Marion Davies in the Film Drama Staged by Julius Steger

What Has Gone Before

Robert Ames, employed in the Diplomatic Service in Washington, visits the widow of Major-General Brooks, U. S. A., and her lovely daughter, Elaine, at Newport, for a short vacation.

His friend, Jack Mills, in the State Department, has also announced his intention of coming to Newport. Bob's uncle, George Blair, a high official in the Department of Justice, rallies Bob on his fondness for Elaine.

Mrs. Durant, a fascinating widow who has all the perquisites of wealth, and who is a friend of Dr. Charles Kemp, editor of the Graphic, a Washington society weekly, has tried in vain to secure some information from Ames for the editor. He gives her money to follow Ames to Newport. Mrs. Durant has ingratiated herself into the good graces of the Brooks family, and hopes to get what she is after. She admires Ames and is resentful of his admiration for Elaine. Mrs. Brooks has been warned by her lawyer to retrench. She thinks Elaine ought to marry one of her many millionaire admirers. Elaine flatly refuses to marry except for love. In Newport Ames finds Elaine more fascinating than ever. They go to a Red Cross fete aboard the Wiedun yacht and there meet Mrs. Durant, who devotes herself to Mrs. Brooks. As a result she is invited to a dance in the Brooks cottage and there finds Bob unresponsive. Jack Mills arrives for the dance and announces that he is going abroad on a secret mission.

Now Continue the Story

(Novelized from the motion picture "The Burden of Proof," based on a drama by Victorien Sardou and produced by the Marion Davies Film Corporation. Scenario by F. M. Weller. Screen version copyrighted.)

By Jane McLean

"I SHALL be delighted, my dear Mrs. Brooks, I have already accepted an invitation to go motoring with the Whelans, but I shall make my excuses."

In the small hours the dancers made their way home. Under the Japanese lanterns strung across the verandа, happy young men and women thanked their hostess for an evening of real pleasure. Elaine stood chatting with Paul Weathersby and Jack Mills as Ames appeared.

"We'll see you tomorrow, Jack," said his friend.

"Sure, I'm leaving tomorrow night."

"You're leaving Newport?" Paul Weathersby glanced at Elaine as though to ask how anyone could depart with such an attraction near.

"Yes, I'm off," answered Jack, shortly. "Business is business."

"It depends on the business," muttered Weathersby, as Mills departed.

"Well, children," said the affable Mrs. Brooks, as the last guest disappeared, "I do hope you've had an enjoyable, old-fashioned time. Do you know, I like Mrs. Durant more and more. I've asked her to tea tomorrow, and I do wish, Elaine, you'd sit down and write her a little note, late as it is.

"Early as it is I will," said Elaine. "Come along, Bob, you're a diplomat, you can help me with the wording."

Mr. Ames had a chance to exercise all his tact, and evidently he did it to the satisfaction of his hostess. Elaine walked out to the post box with him. Mrs. Brooks caught a fleeting glimpse of the expression on her daughter's face, when the two returned. As Bob Ames went to his room, she sighed. She seemed to read the doom of Paul Weathersby and all Elaine's other millionaire suitors.

Elaine (Marion Davies) writes to Mrs. Durant at her mother's request

She Thinks About Bob

She wondered why she had never thought of Bob Ames before in the light of a prospective son-in-law. Well, she reflected that while Bob might not be a millionaire, he was well-to-do. His family was one of the most distinguished in the country and he belonged to the group of young men spoken of as having a career before them. Mr. Ames, senior, had been Secretary of State, and his mother, the daughter of an old Southern family and high among the D. F. Vs.

The late Major-General Brooks, her husband, for whose opinion she entertained the highest respect, had regarded Mr. Ames, senior, as one of the few disinterested public men of his acquaintance. With such a father, Bob Ames had enjoyed advantages of a training and ideals which ought to make any woman happy. Mrs. Brooks, following her favorite lines of least resistance, began to see in this possible union a good many advantages which even a colossal fortune could not supply.

The following day dawned cool and beautiful. Jack Mills appeared shortly after breakfast, clad in flannels and ready for tennis.

"As I'm off tonight," he announced, "I'd better make hay while the sun shines."

Ames took him by the arm, and the three marched off to the casino.

Mrs. Durant was already there, surrounded, as usual, by a group of admirers.

Every one was talking not tennis, but war. There were rumors of a new submarine move by the German government—a new threat directed against the American people.

As a result the interest in mere games flagged, and even at the lunch table the only subjects discussed were the insolent acts of the conquering Junkers of Prussia.

The afternoon brought the charming Mrs. Durant, serene and smiling, and although Jack Mills and Bob Ames seemed to be equally devoted to the lovely daughter of the house she bestowed cordial smiles on both men and settled herself to talk with her hostess.

Tea was brought, and the young people strolled to the grounds and, leaving Mrs. Brooks to chat with her guest, settled themselves in a small Summer house, but only for a moment.

A Telephone Message

The maid who had brought on the tray appeared with a message:

"Telephone for you, Mr. Ames."

The young man rose hastily. "Probably from Washington," he said, leaving Elaine to be entertained by his friend.

"So you're leaving tonight, Jack?"

"Yes, going to Amsterdam. Here's my passport," and he tapped his breast pocket. "By the way, Elaine, like to see my latest photographs? Pretty good, I call them, at two for a quarter—here's the duplicate." He took from his pocketbook a small likeness, excellent in its clearness, and held it before her.

"You might leave this as a souvenir," she said gayly, "and be sure you dodge the submarines, Jack."

"It's all in the game, Elaine; here comes Mrs. Durant."

Elaine dropped the small photograph on the wicker table and rose as the elder woman approached.

"Your mother is coming in a minute," she said, begging Elaine to be seated. "Isn't it lovely here?"

"I'll miss it, all right," said Jack Mills. "Always did like Newport. Lots different from Amsterdam."

"Amsterdam!" murmured Mrs. Durant.

"Jack's going across," Elaine explained.

Mrs. Durant laughed. Oh, government business. Well, I never did take any interest in that—I think women should keep out of politics. American women, that is—we're not like our English sisters."

"I know mother wants to talk to you Mrs. Durant," said Elaine, "and here she is. Come along, Jack; we'll hunt up Bob."

The two walked out of the Summer house, and the little photograph lay forgotten on the table. Mrs. Durant was not slow in putting two and two together. She rose and with a swift and natural movement slipped the pasteboard into her hand and as gracefully transferred it to her pocket. This man, name Jack Mills, was going to Amsterdam on State Department business—probably important war business—and here was an identification perfect and unmistakable. News, indeed, for Dr. Kemp.

"Oh, Mrs. Brooks, I was just saying to your charming daughter how lovely a place this is—I have always wanted one like it. But the expense! Dear me! it takes such a lot of money, doesn't it?"

Mrs. Brooks, settling down with her knitting, sighed.

"Expense! Yes, indeed; everything's simply prohibitive these days, and I really think I shall have to give this house up."

"Oh, no," murmured the sympathetic listener.

"It makes a difference, having a son or having a daughter," she went on. "Woman do not seem able to earn much, in spite of all the stories one reads in the papers."

"My dear Mrs. Brooks, may I make a suggestion? I had no idea you were temporarily embarrassed, but it does seem providential I should have learned it just at this moment."

"Really?" Mrs. Brooks assumed her most interested air.

"Yes, for I am sure I can help you out in the simplest way. A friend of mine, Dr. Kemp—of course you know him—has lost a contributor to his paper—the Graphic, you know—and he will pay handsomely for items of a social and diplomatic nature. Of course he prides himself on his patriotism, and so don't think for an instant I want you—anything the whole world shouldn't learn—you know what I mean. Your connections give you access to many men and women in social and diplomatic circles—harmless bits of information — things you hear, and so on."

"But I don't see how they would be worth anything," Mrs. Brooks demurred.

Dr. Edwin P. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Siser, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

When a Girl Marries

A New Serial of Young Wedded Life

By ANN LISLE

(Copyright, 1915, by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

THE world was shut out. We two were the world. And it was a world of happiness. Life seems to be either a great dramatist or a great humorist, revelling in contrasts—in the swing of the see-saw.

But presently the world forced its way back into my consciousness—the world and the war—the war to which Jim longed to go. I had a glaring moment of vision—a sharp struggle with myself.

There was still work for men like Jim. Other women had to give their men. America needed my Jim. His country and mine! And she was asking him of me even as he asked himself of me. He was my boy—my little boy, but the army knew him as a man, strong to fight for Liberty. I must find strength to do my part. He must be my gift—my free gift.

Only a woman who has made my fight and won it can know just how far I was borne in a few moments. I won my struggle. I can always be glad because of that.

With lips and eyes that were dry and burning, I put into words my victory over myself:

"Jim, my darling, I am ready to let you go. Ready to give you back to do your share."

Jim loosed his arms from about me, and fairly pushed me away among the cushions of the couch. As he stood towering above me, I noticed again how very tired he looked.

"Oh, my boy, you are worn out. You hurried too fast to come back from Washington!" I cried nervously.

My words were meaningless — fumbling, but I could not meet Jim's staring eyes in silence.

He answered me very quietly.

"There was no reason—to stay. Anne, I didn't pass the physical examination. I can never fly again. They told me I was no good for any kind of real war work—not even an inspectorship, because that means walking, and my ankle won't stand up. The other smashes—ribs and—things have put me on the scrap-heap. I'm no good—no good!"

I leaped to my feet and caught him in my arms. Tender words came to my lips—mother words. But he didn't heed. Still in the same quiet, dead voice he went on:

"I'm no good, Anne. I can't go across—I can't even march in the ranks as a private. I'm done for—"

"Boy, dear—you're wrong!" I cried. "You're so brave and splendid—so anxious to serve. My Jim, my wonderful boy—they'll find work for you. I want you to go back—I'll let you go anywhere—anywhere, my brave soldier boy."

Jim shuddered. "Anne, I'm not a soldier any longer. I have resigned. They'll accept it in a week or so—and then I'm out of the army for good. There's nothing I can do worth the doing and so—I'm getting out."

As he dragged out his words, a picture flashed across my mind—Jim out of his uniform, Jim in civilian clothes. I had never seen him in a mere business suit—how would he look? He was conjuring up a stranger for me and I felt frightened!

But only for a moment. Then again I was swept by the great yearning in his heart—the yearning to share in the war; and I found myself throbbing with his pain and his desire to be again a whole man, fit to fight for freedom.

"I'm done for—on the scrap heap—but I'll come back. I'll find something to do," getting command of himself.

"They'll have some position—some appointment for you," I protested, longing to make a practical suggestion.

"But I tell you I've resigned, dear," he repeated with a patience foreign to him—and so vastly pathetic.

And then I was suddenly aware of a new problem. A man must work—a man as well as a soldier must find the job for which he's fit—the place he is equipped to fill.

What had Jim done before he was a soldier? What was he qualified to do now that he was no longer a soldier? Was he questioning his own ability to earn a living?

MOVIE ACTRESSES AND THEIR HAIR

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, many are leading ladies just because of their attractive looks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture by putting a teaspoonful of Canthrox (which they get from the druggist) in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. This full cup of shampoo liquid is enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After the use, the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is, its luster and softness are delightful.—Advertisement.

New Home Treatment for Banishing Hairs

(Beauty Topics)

With the aid of a delatone paste, it is no easy matter for any woman to remove every trace of hair or fuzz from face, neck and arms. Enough of the powdered delatone and water is mixed into a thick paste and spread on the hairy surface for about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package.—Advertisement.

"Stranger" writes: "I have pains in my spine and frightful headache in back of head, fainting spells, twitching and trembling, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, and in fact am a 'has been,' when it comes to performing accustomed work and duties."

Answer: In all such cases the assimilative functions have not kept pace with waste functions and a powerful, harmless tonic treatment is needed. I find three grain cadomene tablets unexcelled and astonishingly beneficial in such cases and advise them for you.

"Jane" says: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cold and cough. I have tried many remedies, but they do not seem to help me at all. I wish you would advise me what to do."

Answer: What you need is a laxative cough syrup, one that will drive the cold from your system. The following prescription will check your cold and cough: Get a 2½-oz. package of concentrated essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle. Take a teaspoonful every hour or two until your cold is better. This will relieve you in a very few days.

Celia asks: "My hair is too oily and my scalp itches with dandruff, and of late it is combing out too much. What is a good treatment?"

Answer: Obtain plain yellow mingyl from your druggist in 4-oz jars and apply per directions. This cleans, purifies, cools and invigorates the hair and scalp, thus stopping the death of the hair. Dandruff and itching are at once relieved. Men and women all over the country use it regularly.

"Worried" writes: "Have been doctoring for kidney trouble and now want your advice. Pressure in back of head followed by burning pain and am very tired and sore across the shoulder. Also backache affects me dreadfully. Can hardly move when I wake in the morning. Weakness, too, is a symptom."

Answer: I think if you will take kalmwort tablets regularly for a few weeks your kidneys and bladder will become normal and such symptoms cease. This is unsurpassed for such complaints in my estimation.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Baker has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns, and countless lives have been saved in relieving illness and distress more than any man living individual in the world's history. Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence similar to the following:

Dr. Lewis Baker, Dear Sir:—We have used three of the samples you have advise, the double four, the essence mentho-laxene and the rheumatism prescriptions, and I want to say they all worked like a charm. They are the best I have ever used and I feel I could not keep house without them. I am very grateful and pleased to recommend any of these medicines prescribed. Very truly yours,

MRS. R. L. WHITED,
No. 4 Coleman St.,
Port Jervis, N. Y.

HENIGAN IS HUB HOPE AT MEET

Leaves With Metropolitan Division for A. A. U. Title Games at Great Lakes Station

By H. W. LANIGAN.

That's going to be a wonderful three-day athletic carnival which gets under way at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., tomorrow. The games will be continued Saturday, with the finals decided on Monday.

Fully 50,000 bluejackets in training and thousands of civilians are to see the running of the National A. A. U. track and field events; there will be room fr 100,000 and word from Chicago states that clear weather will mean jammed stands.

The games are to be held under the auspices of the Chicago A. A. President Nelson Lampert of that organization, and Captain W. A. Moffett, commandant at Great Lakes, have combined forces to handle the affair.

A 440 STRAIGHTAWAY.

The laying out of the field has been such as to render it perfect. Captain Moffett's put idea, a 440 yard straightaway, has been carried out, and the experts are looking for a crackling of some of the records.

The entry list totals 781, a record breaker, and surpasses all expectations.

The Royal Air Force of Toronto has entered seven athletes, including Earl Thompson, a world's title holder. Mertens, noted distance walker, is also entered from the Canadian city.

The team representing the Metropolitan Association, Gotham bound today. It embraces forty topliners. The division's original entry list called thirty-eight, but the eight Smiling Jimmy Henigan, now stationed at Fort Slocum, and Eddie Mayo, junior cross-country champion, were post entries to the party.

HENIGAN GETS HIS CHANCE.

That Henigan is on the top of his form was proven by his recent splendid performance when he placed the New England Association five-mile championship to his credit, fairly leaving a creditable field.

Henigan is to hook up with the fastest distance runners in the entire country at the games.

Let Smiling Jimmy beat these whirlwinds in the five-mile run and his name will go down in Hub athletic annals as the daddy of them all.

And any honor list is some list—as dazzling as can be claimed by New York, Chicago or any other city.

Henigan will not be this section's only representative. The New England Association had Coach James W. Driscoll, High School of Commerce quarter-miler; Charley Shepherd, broad-jumper, and P. J. McGarry, Radio School high-jumper. They're three sterling athletes, as good as they come among the younger set.

MARLBORO BOXING CLUB ARRANGES OPENING CARD

The Marlboro Dring Club of Marlboro opens its boxing season at Pastime Hall, September 27, with an exceptionally strong card.

Matchmaker Jack Leonard has paired up four pairs of boxers who are sure t ogive the Marlboro sports plenty of action. Young Kenner of Chelsea and Young Ross of Everett open the show with a six-rounder, followed by Mike Donnelly of Framingham and Frank Chaney of Beachmont in a like number.

Bobby Tyson, New Bedford Bearcat, and Mike Castle of Lawrence furnish the semi-final six-round go, while Dan Powers of Malrounds, while Dan Powers of Malden and Young Keto, of New Chelsea, are down for the feature event of ten rounds.

ANOTHER $10,000 STAKE WON BY PRINCE LOREE

Columbus, O., Sept. 19.—Prince Loree (McDevitt) repeated her Syracuse triumph by winning the 2:14 trot, worth $10,000, in straight heats. Autocrat was second and Lotta Watts third. David Guy (Murphy) took the three-year-old trot, after finishing third in the first heat, which went to Nella Dillon; Bells Alcantara (McMahon) accounted for the 2:17 pace in straight heats, and Jack K. (Gray) annexed the 2:15 trot in straight heats.

OTIS OFF IN LEAD FOR THREE-CUSHION TITLE

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Charles Otis of New York defeated Augie Kleckner of Milwaukee, 50-45 in 76 innings in the first block of their three-night contest for the world's three-cushion billiard championship, now held by the latter.

It is announced that Alfredo De Oro, next challenger in line, had withdrawn his defi, which leaves Charles McCourt of Cleveland free to play the winner.

Roamer and Sun Briar Slated to Hook Up at Laurel Course

New York, Sept. 19.—Andrew Miller, owner of the world famous sprinter, the aged gelding Roamer, has accepted the defi of Willis Sharpe Kilmer, owner of Sun Briar, for a match race between these two great thoroughbreds.

In all probability the race will be decided at the Laurel meeting next month.

Since Sun Briar, in a private trial at Saratoga, was credited unofficially with bettering Roamer's officially recognized world record of 1:34 4-5 for a mile, Mr. Kilmer has been on the trail of Roamer's owner for a race between these two great thoroughbreds.

Mr. Miller announces that he is ready to send Roamer against any and all horses in a match race, weight for age. He would like to have Cudgel, Westy Hogan or any other that can be induced to accept the issue and try conclusions with his champion at a mile or even more.

As Sun Briar is about the only horse of Roamer's class that is kept to the top edge of racing form, it is likely these two only will go to the post in the event that the big race materializes.

DE FOE-BRITT BOUT AT PROVIDENCE PUT OVER

Greater Boston Boys Are Mainstays of Shattuck Co. Nine

The baseball team representing the L. H. Shattuck Shipbuilding Company, Inc., of Portsmouth, N. H. and which plays the United Shoe Machinery nine at Braves Field, Saturday afternoon, has been aided in its phenomenal record of thirty-four wins in thirty-eight games this season by a number of players whose early experience was gained in Boston and vicinity.

One of its stars is John Mitchell, second baseman, who played on Somerville High, Worcester Academy and Boston College, and also operated in the Eastern League.

Oliver Johnson, who alternates with Bill Tyler, brother of Lefty George Tyler, in the box, pitched for Everett High last Spring. Arthur Gutton, another shortstop, was the all-scholastic shortstop for Greater Boston two years ago and Dana Spring played at Exeter.

Sam Kirstein, one of Tufts' stars first year, is in left field, while Dugan, a brother of Joe Dugan of the Athletics, plays in center. He formerly played at St. Anselm's.

Cashman, at third, has played at St. Anselm's, Holy Cross and Catholic University, while Albert Burgess, behind the bat, is an old Rindge Tech athlete, who, like Conlon, was at Exeter last Spring.

BOXING AID TO DRILLING BOYS IN SERVICE

Claims to the effect that boxing does not give a useful training as a basis for bayonet fighting, and that the two have no common relationship, are emphatically denied in a formal statement issued by Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, head of the Athletic Division on Training Camp Activities.

His statement, in part, follows:

"Several more or less uninformed critics have published articles to the effect that boxing does not give useful training as a basis for bayonet fighting. Such criticisms are based upon ignorances of both bayonet fighting and military boxing.

"The experience of the past year in the training camps shows that the boxing has great value as a preparation for bayonet fighting and in the development of those physical and spiritual qualities that are characteristic of the aggressive fighting man.

"The great majority of our young men who make up the army have had little or no experience in physical contact games that develop self reliance, courage, quick thinking and quick decisions under fire. Bayonet training, as it has to do in drill in which speed, endurance and skill in handling the weapon are developed, but in the latter days of tiings, there can be no practice with the bayonet.

"Boxing supplies this important contest factor and furnishes a means of training men to keep their heads and to carry out an effective plan of attack, even though they are being punished by their opponents. In this way qualities needed in the makeup of a bayonet fighter are developed by practice in boxing to an extent and with a rapidity that is impossible in any other plan of training those fine traits.

"The commanding officers of the training camps in this country have almost unive rsally testified to the value of boxing as a part of military training. Two of many of the principal camps it has been made a regular and definite part of the training routine."

PATSY KLINE TO REFEREE LEONARD-LEWIS BATTLE

New York, Sept. 19.—Patsy Kline, former featherweight boxer of Newark, has been selected to referee the eight-round bout between Benny Leonard and Ted (Kid) Lewis at Newark next Monday night.

Lewis is working on Jimmy De Forest's gymnasium at Long Branch and is experiencing little difficulty making the required weight, 141 pounds. Leonard, fresh from his victory over Phil Bloom in Philadelphia, will continue his preparatory work at Grupp's Gymnasium in Harlem.

YE MERRY OLD-TIMERS HOLDING REUNION TODAY

Ex-Mayor Curley and the Big Corporations

Ex-Mayor Curley is a candidate for Congress in a district which he abandoned when he acquired a degree of affluence which enabled him to set up housekeeping in a more fashionable quarter of the city.

But there is nothing wrong about ex-Mayor Curley's candidacy in a district where he does not live. It is legal, and any district ought to have the privilege and ought to exercise the privilege of selecting the best man to represent it wherever he lives.

The AMERICAN is not particularly interested in most of the issues between Congressman Gallivan and Ex-Mayor Curley. But there is one issue which Mr. Curley has raised which ought to receive some comment from the AMERICAN. Mr. Curley is going about the district denouncing the seven-cent fare and telling the citizens what he would have done had he the power to prevent it. Now there is nothing more laughable than this pretence of Mr. Curley that he is a champion of the people against the corporations. In the first place there was no possible way of avoiding an increase of fare. The only question was whether the increase of fare should go into the hands of a lot of the old private corporation managers, or whether they should be dispossessed and the property should be taken by the public, and the increased money the public put into the road through increased car fares should be put into the hands of their own representatives. Through the insistence of the Boston AMERICAN, without the aid of Mr. Curley, the old private managers of the Boston Elevated were ousted and public trustees were appointed.

But even if the seven-cent fare should be avoided, does anybody who knows Mr. Curley's record believe that he would have been the man to prevent it? Does he think that the people of his district have forgotten what he tried to do for the Edison Electric Light Company? Does he think that the people of his district have forgotten how the AMERICAN was obliged to fight the contract which as Mayor he tried to force down the throat of the city, under which the city would have been robbed of hundreds of thousands of dollars? When he as Mayor signed that contract with the Edison Electric Light Company, the AMERICAN publicly asserted that the city would be robbed by that contract of at least one million dollars. Through the efforts of the Boston AMERICAN and the upstanding members of the City Council that contract was rejected, and Mr. Curley and the Edison Electric Light Company were compelled to make another contract under which the price to be charged by the Edison Company might be reduced by the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners. And the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners thereafter did reduce that price by almost one-half a million dollars. It is the opinion of one of the city's experts that if the decision could have come before the war broke out the price would have been reduced by almost a million.

Thus was the prediction of the AMERICAN fulfilled. Thus was it proved that if Mr. Curley had had his way the city would have lost at least half a million, and for all that he then could have foreseen would have lost a million.

Mr. Curley may have virtues which appeal to the people of the district in which he is a candidate. But it is amazing that he thinks them so unintelligent as to swallow this pretence of his that he could or would have championed the people in any fight in which a great corporation was VERY much interested.

Hit Above the Belt

All the candidates on the Democratic ticket profess to be supporting the National administration and every one of them will, if nominated, urge support at the polls upon the ground that his election will be an endorsement of the administration. Under these circumstances attacks upon one another which must impair their strength at the polls, do not help the administration.

Of course, it does not follow that a man who is guilty of a grievous fault which the public is entitled to know ought not to be exposed. But unproved and unprovable charges going to the character of any of the candidates ought not to be made, especially if they are of ancient vintage.

The charge that Mr. Gaston had an illicit connection with a construction company that was asserted to have built a tunnel for the Boston Elevated Railway extravagantly and corruptly was investigated by the Grand Jury some time ago. By a unanimous vote the Grand Jury exonerated all parties concerned from the charge.

The Democratic candidates ought not to hit each other below the belt. There is an important difference in the points of view of the candidates which would interest the Democratic voters if it were intelligibly pointed out to them, and attempts were abandoned to try the case upon issues concerning which no proof can be advanced.

Mr. Long is progressive in his political point of view. Mr. Gaston is conservative in his political point of view. Neither candidate denies these personal characteristics. They are important differences in qualification for the office. Both men have ideas concerning the future which differ on account of their divergent points of view. A calm and wholesome discussion of these differences would be very interesting to the Democratic constituency and would be strictly within the rules of the game, and every such point made is germane to the issue and a blow above the belt.

Oh, What Will They Do When It's Dry, Dry as the Desert Sahara?

By A. F. HUSSEY

WHEN the schooners no longer cross the bar,
When the white coated bar-men have gone afar,
What will the old hulks tie to then
What will they use instead of gin?

Where will political battles be fought,
Out in the street or in the empty lot
Or over the soda fountain clean,
While the bosses plan and eat ice cream?

Where will the corner idler go,
When the sun's too hot or the sleet and snow
Drive him away from his loafing stand
Will he go and talk with the soda man?

Where will the under world spend the night
When the gin mills are closed and all the white light
Has gone out to stay in the swell cafe?
Will the soda fountain keep open all night?

Where will the fisherman fill his jug
That he uses for bait or to fill his mug?
Will the fish be alone in his watery lair
Or will he see soda drunk up there?

What will you do, my tippler friend
When it really comes to the final end?
Will you swear and fume and fuss and cry,
What will you do when its really dry,
Dry as the desert Sahara?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Give the Boys More

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

If you can spare the space in your paper I think that I have an interesting subject to speak of.

I am a shipyard worker and am making "big wages" along with the rest of the war workers. I expect another raise soon. We need it. But, how about the men who are giving up their positions, their pleasures and leaving their families? Why not take some of this money contributed to labor and pay the boys "over there" allowances that will keep their families without pinching. Of course they need it. They are giving everything, positions, family, pleasures and even their lives. I am a fairly well educated citizen, having gone well above a grammar school education. I have been a working man and understand their trials in these days of H. C. L. But think of "The Boys." Give them more. They say nothing about striking, but bear it all without a groan. Think of their families

Collect Rubber

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

The conservation of rubber seems to be an important thing at this time. May I suggest that every one who is canning fruit and vegetables save the old rubber rings that come from last year's jars, and any defective new rings and send them to some receiving station which you can indicate in your paper.

The total weight of pure rubber that could be quickly collected from this source would be great enough to be quite worth while, and if the whole country should turn in these old rubber rings tons of good rubber that would otherwise be wasted can be saved.

The persons who are saving peach and other stones would all have some rings to donate, and the rings could be collected by the children at the same time they gathered the peach stones.

SCIENCE IS WARRIOR'S BIGGEST ASSET

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE greatest educational lesson of this war is its demonstration of the need of more instruction in scientific knowledge for all boys and girls. Schools are still conducted on a too literary basis. The elements of science should be taught several years earlier in the courses than they are at present. It is literature that ought to wait, and not science.

The laws of motion and of electricity are more important to be known by everybody than the refinements or caprices of style, or the rules of metrical composition. There is more mental value in Newton than in Homer; the one represents the day's work, the other the evening's entertainment.

In our existing system of education we are like an architect beginning his plan with the ornaments. The right system would be arranged somewhat as follows; First speaking, then reading, then and along with these, or immediately succeeding them, arithmetic, elementary mathematics together with the ordinary laws and facts of physics and mechanics, knowledge of plants and animals, anatomy and physiology, the weather, the seasons, elementary astronomy, geography, history; and, after all these, languages, literature and such advanced scientific and other studies as might be preferred.

Education's Tendency

Through and over all, of course, should go instruction and guidance in morals. A nation whose youths were brought up along some such line as that would not only be unconquerable, but it would stand at the world's head, not by virtue of force but by virtue of intelligence.

The vice of the literary type of education is that it leads to a kind of mental cigarette smoking, and tends to destroy the initiative of the stronger faculties, which, under scientific training, deal effectively with the actualities of life and nature. Everybody should, as far as possible, read the great masterpieces of the world's literature, and feed himself upon them; but, without any qualification, everybody should first be a fully developed human, and that cannot be it he values expression above performance.

When our age has become a chapter of ancient history it will be seen that the crowning achievement of the Anglo-Saxon intellect was not the writing of "Hamlet," or "Macbeth," but the production of "The Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy."

Lauds Engineer

As I have often said The highest type of man (excluding moral considerations) is the engineer—and he may be as moral as the best. He is the man that is ready to deal with things because he understands things. I would have every young person an engineer in embryo.

Think of what the soldier going to battle in this war must gain by an education like that outlined above. Half the terrors that strike the new-comer on those awful battlefields may be robbed of their paralyzing force by the neutralizing effect of the fore-knowledge in his brain. Chemistry can arm him against the demons of the gas-war, knowledge of ballistics makes the swooping shells less fearful, acquaintance with the principles of air-flight steadies his nerves in contests with aerial foes.

She Raised Her Heart to Be a Soldier's!

"Baby" Marlowe knew she'd raised her heart to be a soldier's!—that is, she knew it when the right man came along. The martial hero's letters won her; and their war romance is one of the prettiest the Great War has brought about. Charmingly told in the next

"TODAY"

Cowardice and Cruelty.
Kaiser, go to England.
The Puzzled Clams.
Don't Understand Buttons.

—By Arthur Brisbane

Secretary Daniels says truly, "The allied advances are responsible for the offer of peace to Belgium and the proposition of the Austrian emperor for a conference."

"Out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh."

The Kaiser has a heart full and a stomach full of French, English, Italian and American fighting efficiency, more than sufficient.

* * *

An explanation of the sudden demand for peace can also be found in Montaigne's interesting little essay, which begins:

Cowardice, the mother of cruelty. I have often heard it said that cowardice is the mother of cruelty; and I have found, by experience, that malicious and inhuman animosity and fierceness is usually accompanied with a feminine weakness. I have seen the most cruel people, and upon very frivolous occasions, very apt to cry.

The Kaiser was a gory, dashing, defiant "world conqueror" while he was running over weak Belgium and taking the French by surprise through his treachery. He and the Austrian emperor are weeping in chorus and in public now. What Montaigne wrote in the sixteenth century is nicely illustrated in Berlin and Vienna today.

* * *

On Tuesday, from London, a rumor came that the Kaiser had abdicated on behalf of himself and the whole Hohenzollern brood. Yesterday morning the Washington Post printed another rumor, which came, presumably, by Associater Press.

"The Kaiser has suffered a nervous breakdown and is very despondent."

Whether he abdicates, or blows his brains out, as has been predicted, leaving his precious son to face the music, it is certain that cowardice based on cruelty and cruelty based on cowardice are illustrated in the bragging of four years ago and the whining of today.

* * *

The safest thing that the imperial gentleman could do would be to take his entire family, land on the English coast and throw himself on the mercy of the English.

His mother was the daughter of an English king. The English do not murder their enemies or kill defenceless men.

The Kaiser might live safely in England, where the family of Napoleon III. were received, or he might face a trial for murder, if the Prussians keep him at home they will eventually do to him what he did to so many unfortunate, courageous Belgian and French women and children.

* * *

A gentleman who says he is an atheist asks:

"How can you write editorials about a merciful God? Does your religion help you to understand the horrible world war, these murders, unnecessary deaths, etc., etc."

The inquiring atheist is referred to the fresh water clams, so-called mussels, that live in the nice mud of Western rivers.

The shells of these clams are now shipped in carloads to button factories. They sell for $50 a ton, and used to be worth only $16 before the war started.

The atheistic gentleman will will admit that soft water clams are controlled by a wise, higher power, namely, man.

Now that mussel shells are worth $50 per ton they are hunted more industriously than ever. Millions of them have their lives suddenly ended, as they are hauled up with dredges, left in the sun to rot and dry. Their homes, the shells on their backs, are sent away to be manufactured into buttons for human clothing.

* * *

An atheistic clam probably would ask: "How can you talk about wise men manging everything in this nice mud? Can the man of which you speak in any way explain the fact that we are dug out of the mud, millions of us, exposed to cruel death, the houses on our backs, useless to anybody except ourselves, carried away?"

The soft-water clams could not be made to understand why it is that man makes his little house into mother-of-pearl buttons—clams can't understand buttons or clothes.

Human beings cannot understand the war, the suffering, the purposes that direct and control this world.
